Over Mayor's objection

Council approves beachfront lounge

An effort by Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver to preclude construction of a lounge on two beachfront lots between State and Main Streets failed Monday to gain approval of the council's two commissioners. Carver, who had earlier issued instructions to city building inspector B. D. Johnson to deny a building permit to Ronnie Artigues to construct the lounge, said at the council Monday that he was acting on the belief that the present zoning ordinance which recommends two feet of parking space for every frontal front of property could not be met by Artigues because of the restricted space.

Artigues, who appeared at the council meeting with his attorney Robert Genin, said the mayor had a personal interest in blocking construction of the lounge that had nothing to do with the law. Both Artigues and Genin pointed out that another lounge operating in the same area, Marquez, had been issued a permit in 1971 without the city enforcing the 2-1 parking requirement.

"I think it is to everyone's benefit to develop business there again," Genin said. The downtown area, which was almost completely destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969, has not been developed on the beachside of Beach Boulevard to date, as it was before the storm.

Carver retorted that the decision to allow Marquez Lounge to build on the beachside had been made under a previous administration with Carver voting against the decision.

Carver argued that the business district was a "dead" area and that the city should concentrate on developing a recreational area for all of the public rather than allowing commercial development of the beach again.

"This is pie in the sky," Artigues said. "The city can't even operate its parks and playgrounds with our present total budget," Artigues told Carver.

Commissioner Clarence Ladner, who had been silent on the matter for much of the discussion, interjected that "he" was not concerned too much about what the city could do in the future as much as what the law says at the present.

Ladner said that he intended to follow whatever the advice of the city attorney Joseph Gex was on the issue.

Gex said that the proper procedure for the appeal was not followed, that Artigues should have appealed first to the Board of Adjustment but, Gex said, the Council was the sole final arbiter of the matter.

Gex said that there was no question about the zoning of the property that it was already commercial.

"It all boils down to whether the city can restrict development because of this zoning recommendation," Gex said. "I believe that the city cannot legally prevent anyone from doing what they want with their property as long as they meet the requirements of the Southern Standard Building Code."

Ladner made a motion then to end the controversy.

"I believe this area is important and as much a part of New Orleans as Gentilly - therefore I am making a motion that we override this and issue the permit." Ladner rejected a suggestion by Carver that the council delay making a decision until they could get a recommendation from the city Board of Adjustment.

"I don't believe the Board of Adjustment would have any bearing on my opinion," Ladner said. "We are studied to death now."

Kidd sided with Ladner saying the city "can't eat water."

The controversy drew a large number of proponents and opponents who voiced opinions on the issue.

Speaking in support of Artigues were Bay St. Louis attorney and former city commissioner Bill Frisbie, businessman Frank Trapani who owns adjoining property; and businessman Anthony Loiacano whose family also owns property in the area and who formerly had a clothing business on the beach before Camille. Speaking against the lounge were First Baptist Church pastor Rev. Nathaniel Barber and Mrs. Lely Nybo.

One issue, one vote

A Long Beach resident casts his vote in Tuesday's $3.9 million bond election for a new courthouse in Harrison County. The issue passed with 70.2 percent of the 15,319 votes favoring the new Central Elementary School site. The county said it plans to offer the city of Gulfport and the city's school district, the two owners of the proposed site, $340,050 for the land. Poll officials said bad weather and a one-issue election contributed to the low voter turnout. Only 29 percent of the county's registered voters cast votes in the election with the best turnout being in Gulfport where a 53 percent voter turnout voted on a city mayoral election as well as the bond issue.

Supervisors refuse to consider sixteenth section leases

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors refused for a second time to act on a request from County Forester, Mike Williams to terminate two leases on sixteenth section land. In a letter to the board, Williams repeated his recommendations that he had made at the previous board meeting that two leases held by Mrs. Marie Wallace and Walter Hoda, Jr. be terminated because of alleged violations on the property.

At the Feb. 24 meeting board attorney Sam Favre had advised the board that any move to terminate leases should be made by the school board as the body that initiates the lease agreement. The board also refused to act on Williams' recommendation to fine Mrs. Wallace $10 as incorrectly reported last week.

In his letter Williams cited sections of the Mississippi Code on forestry which stated the Board did have the authority to terminate any sixteenth section lease when a violation existed. He repeated that 20 trees had been cut on the property which was "just cause" to terminate the lease.

School Board Attorney Joseph Gex said that he had not been contacted by Williams about the violations, although the forester had indicated that a carbon copy of his letter had been sent to the board.

"I have not been informed about any violations," Gex said. "and until Williams comes before the board about the leases, we have no right to do anything about them. The school board is not going to go on a witch hunt about this property."

In other business, supervisors approved a one year option extension between the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and the Borg-Warner Corporation to purchase 228 acres of land contiguous to the Port Bienvenue Industrial Park. The sale of the land to Borg-Warner has been delayed because of eminent domain proceedings filed by the Port and Harbor Commission against the International Paper Company to acquire the land needed by Borg-Warner. It was reported Monday by Port Director Wilson Webre that IP has filed a motion in the federal district court in Biloxi to remove the suit from Hancock County.

Webre told the Board of Supervisors Monday he would continue to negotiate with IP, but that he felt that this recent action would further delay settlement of the property question.

The board approved a request by Doug Burgin of Mobile Medic to purchase a double band monitor for the Hancock County Sheriff's department.

The monitor, at a cost of $353.76, will enable the ambulance company and the sheriff's office to have direct communication and monitoring ability.

The board accepted bids for county road work on six roads while taking another under advisement. Bids accepted included Carl Moran Road, $13,103.80, Sand Hill Cemetery Road, $4,153.50, Alvin Necaise Road, $8,434.80, Rotten Bayou Cemetery Road, $2,541.10, Gin Road at Pearlridge, $8,500, and Ted Lyman Road, $6,795. F. L. Necaise was awarded all roads except Gin Road awarded to Pearl River Paving Company.

The contract for extermination services for the courthouse, jail, detention center, and agriculture building was awarded to Bay Waveland Pest Control for $41 per month.

Gulf Regional proposes Hancock county planner

by Anita Dinwiddie

The Gulf Regional Planning Commission proposed a joint program with the Hancock County Planning Commission Tuesday night to aid the county in getting federal funds for community development. Supervisors James Travira and A. A. Kellar, who were present at the meeting, said the contract will be brought before the Board of Supervisors Monday for approval. The contract proposed by GRPC involves the hiring of a local planner for Hancock County who will work on a half time basis in the area on ongoing programs such as Stennis airport and Port Bienvenue Industrial Park. His main function in the county will be to assist the local authorities in filing applications for federal funds. If the program is approved, Ralph Hoda, a Hancock County native, will serve as local planner. Hoda is presently employed as a planner with Gulf Regional.

Under the terms of the contract the County Board of Supervisors would agree to pay $7,140 per year for the services of the local planner, but would be reimbursed $6,000 as payment for costs incurred for enforcement of the flood plain ordinance.

"The best part about this plan is that there is a possibility of getting two to one matching federal funds," said Kellar. "There is a possibility of getting $21,000 for our investment of $7,000."

The Director of Gulf Regional Planning, Ned Boudreaux, explained that the regional office has access to funds from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the U. S. Department of Transportation, the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Governor's Highway Safety program.

"If we start this program we will have a better liaison between county and regional planning boards," said Boudreaux. "And a local planner who is stationed in the county will be more available to county officials like the Board of Supervisors and the Port and Harbor Commission."

Some of the projects which would be taken up by a local planner would be the Clermont Harbor dock and harbor facilities, the Bayou Caddy Harbor project, widening and improving Main Street from Highway 90 to St. Francis Street, placing official bench marks in flood-prone areas, making railroad crossing improvements and improving sand beaches.

Marina in March

Discussing plans for the Diamondhead Marina which officially began operations March 1 are (left to right) Ed Snow, Henry Ford and Johnny Barger. Snow is chairman of the Marina Advisory Committee, Ford is Diamondhead's building maintenance supervisor, and Barger is Harbormaster.

Yacht club nearing completion

A $500,000 yacht club and marina complex in Diamondhead is nearing completion and is scheduled to open April 26 said Paul Montjoy, Diamondhead project manager.

"The building is about 80 percent complete," said Montjoy. Last week we had all of the glass panels installed on the main floor on schedule and we hope to have the project complete by April 1. The grand opening will be April 26."

The marina in Diamondhead began operations March 1 and is presently in the process of assigning slips for the boats. Some changes have been made in the original plan of the marina to provide additional electrical power to some of the larger boats already berthed there. This marina has a channel depth of approximately six feet at the Jordan River entrance and three feet from Cutoff Bayou through the Bay. The Yacht Club will have a sunken bar in the center of the main floor, which will include the kitchen, restrooms and a dining area of 3,600 feet. There is a covered deck which stands 18 feet above sea level surrounding the club. A recreational area is planned for the ground floor level.

Compretta announces

J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis, Miss. has authorized the Sea Coast Echo to announce that he will be a candidate for the office of State Legislator from Hancock County in the August primary. A formal announcement will be made at a later date.

School board members threatened by law suit

by Anita Dinwiddie

A suit filed in Biloxi Monday on behalf of 12 Hancock County voters has threatened to enjoin the Hancock County School Board from conducting any business until new elections can be held for the board's four occupied seats.

The suit claims that the four members were elected illegally under a state election law that never received federal approval as required under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Tests given for investigator

The Pass Christian Police Department will administer a police detective-investigator test at 6 p.m. March 21 at city hall.

According to Police Chief Edward Alley, each applicant must be a registered Harrison County voter with three years of police work experience or two years police work experience and two years college.

The applicants must be at least 5 feet, eight inches tall with weight in proportion.

New municipal pier

Work has been completed on the Bay St. Louis municipal pier near Ulman Ave. The 1240 foot pier, which was begun Oct. 15, was completed last Saturday and is now open to the public.

Stanislaus Hall of Fame inducts four

Four men will be inducted into the St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame at the fourth annual induction ceremony to take place on March 15 on the St. Stanislaus campus in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. The inductees include two deceased members—Brother Stephen, S.C. and Dr. Jean B. Lescale—and two living members—Marshall Ballard, Jr. and Captain Roger Boh, Jr. The Hall of Fame is a project of the St. Stanislaus Alumni Association and induction takes place on an annual basis.

Brother Stephen was born in 1848 and entered the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in December, 1863. He was principally known in Bay St. Louis for his work at the St. Stanislaus Day School from 1882-1896. In physical appearance Brother Stephen had a long snow-white beard which gained him the name of Rip Van Winkle. Because of this the Day School was affectionately known as "Rip's University." Brother Stephen died in 1921.

Dr. Jean B. Lescale entered St. Stanislaus in 1907 when he was fifteen years old. In 1912 he graduated from St. Stanislaus; and in 1918 he graduated from the school of Dentistry at Tulane University. He became a noted professor of Dental Radiology at Tulane, and he held a highly respected dental practice for fifty years in the New Orleans area. Dr.

Lescale died in 1972.

Marshall Ballard, Jr. attended St. Stanislaus for nine years and graduated in 1929 as salutatorian of his class. In 1934 he was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship to attend Oxford University in England. He was named president of the American Tung Oil Association in 1949. In 1957 he became manager of New Orleans Towel and Linen Rental Company. In 1969 he served a three-year term on the board of directors of the Linen Supply Association of America.

Captain Roger Boh, Jr. attended St. Stanislaus for eight years and graduated in 1943 as salutatorian of his class. He graduated "magna cum laude" from the U.S. Naval Academy and received his master's degree in Aeronautical Engineering from the University of Michigan. He has served continuous duty in the U.S. Navy from 1944 to the present day where he is project manager for the Ship and Air Systems Integration Office in Washington, D.C. He presently holds the rank of captain.

A special school assembly will take place on March 14 at St. Stanislaus at which time the inductees will be presented to the students of St. Stanislaus. The induction ceremony will take place at 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 15, at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Supervisors plan railroad crossing study

A study of railroad crossings throughout Hancock County to determine the placement of signal lights will be conducted by the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, according to Hancock County Supervisors James Travirca and A. A. Kellar. The two supervisors reported to fellow board members Monday the study had been arranged following a trip to Jackson last Wednesday.

The lack of the proper signaling equipment at several frequently used crossings, including ones in Lakeshore and Clermont Harbor, was noted by the board following a recent inspection of Louisville and Nashville tracks in Hancock County. The inspection by the board, which resulted from the derailment of an L & N train in January, revealed that the track was in need of many repairs. Work has begun on the track repair, but the installation of signal equipment is the responsibility of the Board of Supervisors, railroad officials said.

Travirca and Kellar said they had spoken with William S. Moore, Director of the Governor's Highway Safety Program about the possibility of funding for the signals. Moore recommended that the GRPC study be made prior to application for aid.

The study to be conducted by the GRPC will measure the traffic volume on highways crossing railroad tracks and will review the county's accident record to determine high accident rate locations. Moore told the supervisors that funds are available for up to 90 percent of the cost for grade crossings under the Highway Act of 1973. The County would have to pay the remaining 10 percent of the cost of the signals which Travirca estimated at $25,000 per crossing.

Residents of the Lakeshore area, the site of the January derailment, were present at Monday's board meeting when Travirca and Kellar announced the study. One resident, Mrs. Marie Caillier accused the board of delaying on the issue of the signal lights.

"You should have known that those funds were available a long time ago," said Mrs. Caillier. "I think that it is time that the people in Hancock County take advantage of some of these programs that all the other counties have and stop being treated like second class citizens. If you members of the board would stop bickering among yourselves and do something about it, we may be able to get some of these things."

Another issue of concern to the Lakeshore housewife was train speed while the tracks are being repaired. Mrs. Caillier said that the trains had not reduced their speed as promised by railroad officials.

Hancock County Chancery clerk, John Rutherford, reported that the trains had been ordered to reduce their speed to 30 mph over the damaged tracks Friday by Public Service Commissioner John Dale.

Maxwell requests appointments

Long Beach Mayor Sam Maxwell Tuesday night asked the board of aldermen to submit recommendations for appointments to a Zoning Review Board that would help rewrite the city's ordinances. Several aldermen agreed that a revision of existing ordinances is "sorely needed" after alderman Mike Rudledge suggested that action be taken on Maxwell's request.

In another matter, Long Beach property owner J. M. McDaniel, who was represented by attorney Owen Palmer, complained that a paving project was causing a "tremendous encroachment" on his property on South Wright Avenue.

McDaniel said that he had sought unsuccessfully property tax adjustments from the city since "a large portion" of his property was repaved in 1966. Palmer then asked city attorney Harold DeMetz to study the problem and suggest an equitable solution at the next meeting to avoid any legal action.

The board also confirmed the hiring of Mrs. Willie McKeely as a police dispatcher, and accepted "with regrets" the resignation of Jim Nester, public works administrator.

Finally, Alderman Bob Richards, reporting on the citywide Clean Sweep Program, said that the project has been successful so far and that there has been good response from the community. He noted that several youth groups have been involved in the program and added that anyone interested in participating in the clean-up campaign should meet at City Hall Saturday at 7 a.m.

The Clean Sweep program, which began last Saturday morning in the eastern section of Long Beach, is scheduled to end its first phase this Saturday.

Mayor circulates election petition

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver said yesterday that eleven petitions have been circulated in the city calling for an election to change the city government from the present commission form to an aldermanic type. The names of approximately 250 people, 20 percent, of the registered voters in the city are needed to bring the issue to a public vote.

Mayor Carver has been unsuccessful in his attempts to get the city council to put the government change on the ballot. Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner have opposed the change, saying that they prefer the present commissioner form of government.

Carver says that he is pushing for the change because he feels that the aldermanic form of government is more representative and will allow citizens to serve the city on a part time basis and continue to hold their present jobs. He said that a vote should be taken because when the city changed to a commissioner form in 1926, only 540 persons voted due to a poll tax and other restrictions that existed at the time. He also pointed out that Bay St. Louis was one in only 25 communities of a total of 300 in Mississippi that still had the commissioner form.

"The petitions are circulating now," the mayor said, "but it will probably be six or eight weeks before we will begin collecting them and counting the names."

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has copies of the petition for Bay St. Louis voters to sign or distribute for others to sign.

Kersanac elected

Mrs. Joseph Kersanac, chairman of the business education department at St. Stanislaus High School, has been elected vice-president of the Southern Union of the Catholic Business Education Association. Mrs. Kersanac is presently in her eighth year at St. Stanislaus.

School board cafeteria plans

Plans for a new cafeteria for Hancock North Central at a cost of $170,000 were approved by the Hancock County School Board at a meeting Tuesday, March 4. The board hired Pass Christian architect John Mykolyk for the project which will be a 60 by 100 foot addition that can be used as both cafeteria and auditorium.

Funds for the project will come from $180,000 of Governor's Emergency Council funds designated for school board use.

The addition will be a steel building with brick exterior. A covered walkway will connect the building to the classroom building.

The board also authorized Superintendent K. G. McCarty to attend a workshop on mental retardation in Gulfport March 7 and in Hattiesburg, March 14. Board members asked McCarty to inquire about the possibility of receiving federal aid for the special education program in Hancock County at the meeting.

The board conducted its business Tuesday in the face of a possible injunction later against further meetings. A suit filed in federal district court in Biloxi Monday on behalf of 12 Hancock County residents seeks to have the elections of all board members overruled and new elections called for the four board seats presently occupied. The suit parallels another suit against the board, also filed by Gulfport attorney Ben Stone, on behalf of a group of Hancock citizens challenging the election of a fifth board member, Oris Ladner, elected last November and prevented from taking office by a court injunction until a three judge panel conducts a hearing on the matter. Both suits contend that present members are illegally holding office because the county's system of county-wide elections was never given approval by the U. S. Justice Department under provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Acts.

Members of the board had little comment about the suit Tuesday.

"If they remove all of us from the board, I don't know who they think will run the school system," commented board member Eric Larsen. "I assume they would have to allow us to continue to serve as holdover members until a new election could be held."

Townsend elected to schoolboard

Mrs. Jean Townsend, a 41-year-old real estate agent, has won a five-year term on the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District's Board of Trustees representing Waveland and the outside area of Hancock County. Mrs. Townsend garnered 75 percent of Saturday's vote to defeat Waveland businessman Frank Shattuck 146 to 54 and becomes only the second woman on the five member board.

The school board seat will be Mrs. Townsend's first experience in public office but she has previously served as an advisor to the Bay High Student Council and as a member of the Advisory Council of Southern Accreditation for Bay Junior High.

Mrs. Townsend has two children, Kathy, 13, and Jerry, 14, who both attend Bay Junior High.

Group honors conservationists

The National Wildlife Federation has named Russell E. Train, Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, "Conservationist of the Year," at the organization's 39th Annual Meeting in Pittsburgh March 15.

Train received the "Connie" award, a statuette of a whooping crane, and was cited for his "determined effort to protect the nation's environment in the face of strong opposition."

Six other individuals and two state conservation groups were also given national awards. Sen. Ernest F. Hollings was honored for his conservation legislation in sponsoring laws protecting coastal zones and marine life. Ernest B. Furgurson, editorial columnist for the Baltimore Sun was awarded for his coverage of environmental issues. Paul O. Bofinger, President of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, for leadership in environmental battles. Dr. Roger Tory, for his contributions to art and ornithology. Judge E. Budd Marter III, for his contribution to wildlife management, and Mrs. Lewis E. Smoot for her donation of her Virginia plantation as a state park.

The two National Wildlife Federation state affiliate organizations winning awards are the Georgia Wildlife Federation and the Oklahoma Wildlife Federation—both for organizing successful resistance to river and waterways projects in their states.

The Federation, with 3.5 million members, is the largest non-governmental conservation organization in the U.S. It has affiliates in all 50 states, plus Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The ceremony at which Train and the other winners will receive their "Connies" will highlight a three-day convention in the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel at which 1,000 NWF participants will discuss environmental issues ranging from offshore drilling and strip mining to management of land, timber, and wildlife resources. Actor Lorne Greene, Honorary Chairman of this year's March 16-22 observance of National Wildlife Week, will act as Master of Ceremonies at the traditional awards banquet. The theme for the convention and the week is, "We Care About Wildlife Habitat."

Speakers at the convention, in addition to many technical experts in conservation, will include Senator Hollings, Rep. H. John Heinz III (R-Pa.), whose district includes part of Pittsburgh, and Jimmy Carter, former governor of Georgia who recently announced as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1976.

Train, this year's top award winner on the basis of achievements in 1974, has been head of the EPA since 1973. Prior to that, as chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, he played a key role in implementing the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

In addition to classroom work, the participants will also have time for leisure with field trips, week-end outings and other recreational activities planned.

Students in the Bay St. Louis area interested in the program should contact Dr. Phil McCarty, Mississippi College, Clinton, MS., 39058, for application and other information.

Cities submit application forms

Pass Christian has applied for $400,968 in federal community development funds, a figure nearly twice the $225,000 in federal discretionary funds which the city is competing for. Long Beach has also applied for more than the limit, requesting $280,000 of Housing and Urban Development money for inter-city projects.

Both pre-applications were delivered to Jackson days before the March 1 deadline. The cities will soon receive notice from Jackson whether or not to proceed with a more detailed application outlining their needs.

Pass Christian determined, after a series of public forums, that the city's top priority was a sewerage extension and hook-up for houses on Seal and Mercier Streets. The city's other priorities and the estimated cost of each as follows: a city-wide drainage plan ($10,000), gas extensions ($3,000), a North Street bikeway ($165,000), rehabilitation of low-income homes ($12,000), revitalization of the business district ($5,000), and plans for a community center ($20,000).

Long Beach also had a public forum to determine the city's needs. Mayor Sam Maxwell said last week that the city's top priority was the purchase of a blighted area for the construction of a neighborhood community center. Long Beach and Pass Christian along with Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Wiggins, and Hancock, Harrison, and Stone counties are competing for $225,000 in federal discretionary funds made available under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

Under the provisions of the Act, the funds will be distributed to the communities showing the greatest need.

Mississippi College offers seminar

High school juniors in the Bay St. Louis area are invited to apply for a special summer seminar program offered by Mississippi College which allows them the opportunity to get the feel of college life before becoming collegians.

The seventh annual College Program for Seniors is planned for June 1 through July 9 and will be limited to 25 students.

"We welcome inquiries from the Bay St. Louis area said Dr. Phil McCarty, professor of Bible and religious education and program coordinator, "but would urge them to get their applications in early because of the limited enrollment."

Planned for high school students who have completed the junior year, the program allows the participants the privilege of taking a regular load for a summer term.

Enrollees take two three-semester hour academic courses in regular college classes in the fields of history, art, mathematics, English, Bible, and speech. They will also participate in a non-credit, discussion-type seminar during the afternoons.

Tuition and fees for the program are free and the only cost to the student is his room and board on campus for the six weeks.

If the participant enters Mississippi College as a full-time student, either as a high school graduate or an early admission applicant, six semester hours of college credit will be entered on his official transcript.

In addition to classroom work, the participants will also have time for leisure with field trips, week-end outings and other recreational activities planned.

Students in the Bay St. Louis area interested in the program should contact Dr. Phil McCarty, Mississippi College, Clinton, MS., 39058, for application and other information.

Poor and rich share sickness frequency

Bay St. Louis residents Maxine DeRoche and Peggy Mathern represented Hancock General Hospital at a one-day workshop on health services at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson recently.

Guest lecturer Dr. Nancy Milio told the public health nurses and allied health personnel at the workshop that extremes in the American way of life cause illness. The "really poor" get sick because they are deprived, she said, and the "super rich" become ill because the pleasures they can afford are unhealthy. People with a comfortable, above average income of around $10,000 per year are least likely to get sick, she said.

"If people in the health professions are really concerned," Dr. Milio said, "they have to make known what kinds of things are health generating, and what are health damaging." The guest lecturer is an adjunct professor in the Boston School of Nursing - Harvard Medical School Joint Program in Maternal-Child Health. She holds a B. S. degree in nursing and M.S. and Ph. D. degrees in sociology.

Participants discussed new directions in providing health services and ways community professionals can make a difference in services available locally.

The University of Mississippi School of Nursing, the UMC Division of Continuing Health Professional Education, and the Mississippi State Board of Health sponsored the workshop with support from Mississippi Regional Medical Program.

Loitering law passes

Bay St. Louis residents will have to be careful about where they do their loitering because of an ordinance passed by the city council Monday prohibiting prowling, promenadeing, loitering, loafing or congregating on any of the streets, sidewalks or other public places in Bay St. Louis.

The ordinance, passed by a vote of two to one with Commissioner Lucien Kidd dissenting, says that a person found guilty of violating this ordinance will be fined not less than $25 or more than $50.

Penney history illuminates Bay St. Louis past

GERTRUDE COWAND PENNEY

Editor's note: The following history of Bay St. Louis by Gertrude Cowand Penney first appeared in the pages of the Echo on Feb. 11, 1905, a year after Stephen Michel Penney took Miss Fannie Gertrude Cowand as his bride in January 1904. A little less than two weeks later, the young bride took the article as it had appeared in the Echo and placed it together with a handwritten letter and placed both in a sealed bottle which was then deeply imbedded in the plaster of one of the bedrooms of the family home located at 806 North Beach. The tiny time capsule was not seen again until early 1963 when it was accidentally discovered during the course of some remodeling and repairs in preparation for occupancy by the home's new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter S. Kimbrough, who had just purchased the house. Mr. Kimbrough took the bottle to the office of then attorney Dan Russell, where the two men, not having the slightest idea of what they would find, ceremoniously broke open the bottle to examine its contents.

The discovery of Gertrude's ink written letter and the front page of the Feb. 11, 1905 edition of the Sea Coast Echo was featured in the pages of The Daily Herald, along with a brief background of the Kimbrough's.

The letter, intended for whomever may find it, is self-explanatory and is quoted here in its entirety. Gertrude was then a young bride, having been married the previous year to Stephen Michel Penney, according to a wedding announcement which she thoughtfully pasted at the top of the letter. Here is what she wrote almost 70 years ago.

"This house was a long low building in 1821. In 1867 the gables were added.

"This is the year of 1905, and at the present writing the house is still in good condition, only needing a few new pieces of weather board thereon.

"This house has been in the possession of the Cowands nearly a century.

"At present it is owned and occupied by Sidney L. Cowand and his sister and her husband, Gertrude Cowand Penney and Stephen M. Penney.

"The house has been a showplace in Bay St. Louis for years.

"It is now being repaired by Stephen M. Penney this beautiful sunshine day.

"Gertrude and Stephen and Sidney are a united family and very happy together—all being in the springtime of life.

"The only other member of the family is a bright little horse named Baby.

"This is written here by Gertrude Cowand Penney this beautiful day of our Lord 1905 on Wednesday, March 1st.

The history of Bay St. Louis, as written by Mrs. Penney for the Echo in 1905 is also reprinted in its entirety to illustrate the charm and thoroughness of this remarkable woman.

Editors Note: Joe Pilet, a member of the Hancock County Bay-Waveland Bicentennial Committee and representing the Gulf Coast Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, is largely responsible for research making possible the following history of Bay St. Louis which reaches back to the year 1768. Gertrude Cowand Penney, author of the history, once lived in the home now owned and occupied by the Hunter S. Kimbroughs, 806 North Beach, Bay St. Louis. She died of child-birth complications in 1906, and was buried in the private Cowand Cemetery located on Leopold Street.

Surviving Mrs. Penney are her only child, Miss Gertrude Cowand Penney of New Orleans and Gulf-Coast relatives including Mrs. Jesse Cowand III and Mrs. Helene Price of Highland Drive in Bay St. Louis, Malcolm A. Cowand of Julia Street in Bay St. Louis and Miss Ruby Cowand of Gulfport.

The Calendar issued this year by the Hancock County Bank is an ideal blending of the present and past. On the new style grey card-board is a History and Progress of the land first known by the Indians as "Chou Cou Pou Lou" and later as Shieldsboro in honor of General Shields. scene entitled "The Historian". Two Indians upon the soft skin of a wolf are studying the parchment suspended before them upon an improvised easel of sticks, whereon are traced by the crude hand of the red man subjects for the young savages' receptive mind to grasp.

This scene is evidently pictured from the heart of the woodland, it is possible and probably, may have really been enacted upon the very site of the Bank, say some two centuries ago.

Yet, at this later day, we cannot fancy the corner of Main and Front Streets harboring such a scene, for the poor Choctaw, like the rest of his nation, gave way to the white man long ago, who brought with him civilization and progress.

It seems pathetic to have driven the red man from his haunts of a thousand years or more, but, in the course of events it had to be; for progress conquers all before it, and unless we march with its victorious forces, we would meet extinction in time, as has been the fate of the savage.

A century or more ago our now beautiful little City of Bay St. Louis was a mixed settlement, called by the red man "Chou cou pou lou", by the white man "the District of Bay St. Louis."

In 1768, when the French and Indian War came to an end and peace was made between France and England, France gave up all her territory, part of which was given to Spain. Spain afterwards gave it secretly back to France. Thus for a time the little village of "Chou cou pou lou" was governed by the Spanish.

About that time, to encourage immigration, the Government gave grants of land to whomsoever would cultivate the ground and make their homes here in the District of Bay St. Louis. Many men of French and Spanish extraction availed themselves of the Government's offer and became the owners of extensive tracts of land.

After Spain had returned France her territory it was necessary for all these Spanish grants to be confirmed by the French Government.

In the early part of the year 1794 the Baron de Carondelet, then Governor of these provinces, had the Spanish grant of one Louis Alexo Lessassier made good by the French Government, which he represented.

Later in the same year, upon a return trip from France, this Louis Alexo Lessassier suffered ship wreck and lost his papers, among them his grant to lands at Chou-cou-pou-lou in the District of Bay St. Louis.

In the year of 1798 Louis Alexo Lessassier applied to Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, Brigadier of the Royal Army and Governor General of those provinces, and, at the request of his excellency, the Baron de Carondelet, General Manuel Gayoso de Lemos directed his secretary, Don Andrew Lopez Armesto, to search for a record of the Lessassier claim. It was found copied and Louis Alexo Lessassier again gained possession of the land.

The above mentioned old document is in the writer's possession and was exactly one hundred and seven years old the 12th of last December (1904). Time has touched its former white pages with the tint of saffron, but it is otherwise as perfect as when it was signed by the following men, prominent in the History of New Orleans; - First, His excellency, the Baron de Carondelet, one of the kindest hearted noblemen of his time; then Don Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, Don Andrew Lopez Armesto, Don Anesto Montes de Oca, Franco Masco de St. Mareant and Hernando Domingo Sansa.

All these signatures are well written, and it is evident that these old Spanish grandees and French noblemen were men of character and intellect.

This ancient deed bears many marks left by the proverbial "red tape" of the law of the land, having been recorded no less than four times at different stages in its career of a century.

"Chou-cou-pou-lou" continued a small village of Spanish, French and Indian inhabitants until the year of 1819, when a storm, much more violent than that of 1893, accompanied by a tidal wave, swept the village out of existence and drowned most of its inhabitants.

A few years later families from other parts of the United States, and some foreigners as well, came to the shores of the Bay of St. Louis and made their homes here - hence arose another village, Phoenix-like, from the ashes of old "Chou-cou-pou-lou". It was named Shieldsboro, in honor of General Shields.

About this time the writer's grandfather came here and purchased from the heirs of Louis Alexo Lessassier the lands granted him by Spain. He was only one of many who came here and bought up land and cast their futures with Shieldsboro.

Then came an era of prosperity. Slaves worked in the fields of the finest Sea Island cotton, cane, rice and vegetables. Lovely plantation homes began to grace the banks of the bay.

A Catholic Church, Our Lady of the Gulf, arose and was, as it is now, an ornament to old Shieldsboro. Since those days the church has been greatly improved, but the original part of the edifice remains intact.

The Rectors of The Sacred Heart and the Sisters of St. Joseph also came and added their share toward the progress of the town.

Steamboats landed at the head of where Carroll avenue is now. "Twas not thought possible in those days that a railroad bridge could ever be constructed across our water ways.

The Indians, few in number, were friendly with the planters, and often came in from the woods with presents of game for the whites.

Bears, wolves, wild cats and deer swarmed through the forests, but seldom did any harm - save a wolf that would steal a sheep once in a while, or a bear that would slip into the planter's field and steal an armful of corn for his supper. But the animals, like the poor Choctaw, have passed out of Bay St. Louis, and out of our memories also.

Men who were prominent in the annals of Shieldsboro before the Civil War were Dimetry Canna, a Greek by birth, Noel Jourdan - for whom the gentle reed-bordered stream emptying into the bay just above Dunbar's Canning Factory was named - Elihu Carver, Father Buteaux, John O'Brien, Jesse Cowand, Joseph Fields, Willis H. Arnold, Alexander Booker, J. B. Toume, J. Monet, and many others, of whom the writer would like to mention, but has no record of these names.

In the foregoing period written of, Augusta was the county seat, and the people of Shieldsboro had to journey up there to have their differences settled, which must have been very inconvenient, but everything in those days appears inconvenient in our Twentieth Century mind's eye.

Shieldsboro continued prosperous until the Civil War broke out; then, like the rest of the South, the little town suffered reverses.

After the war, the once rich planter came home to ruin and desolation, he lost heart, and Shieldsboro became a grave yard of dead hopes with apparently no future before her, when lo and behold! the Louisville & Nashville Railroad invaded the town, and a new era of prosperity began.

As in the case of Bay St. Louis now, Shieldsboro also had her few "moss backs" who fought against the progress of the railroad as if it were an enemy instead of the means of building up the town more than ever before.

But the railroad "came, saw and conquered" and since then Shieldsboro became Bay St. Louis.

With the advent of the railroad came a gradual change for the better to Bay St. Louis. More people came to live here; the woods were cleared away; streets were laid out; hotels were built. But the most wonderful progress of all has taken place within the past ten years - nay, even the past five years, and now the future of our town is painted in glowing colors on the wall of prosperity.

Before the shriek of the locomotive echoed along our shores our town could not boast a local newspaper. The nearest journal was "The Sea Shore Sentinel", published over in Harrison County.

These days two splendid local newspapers, The Sea Coast Echo and the Gulf Coast Progress, are in circulation. In the summer of 1903 the Sea Coast Echo moved into its new home, an elegant two story brick structure at the corner of Front and State streets.

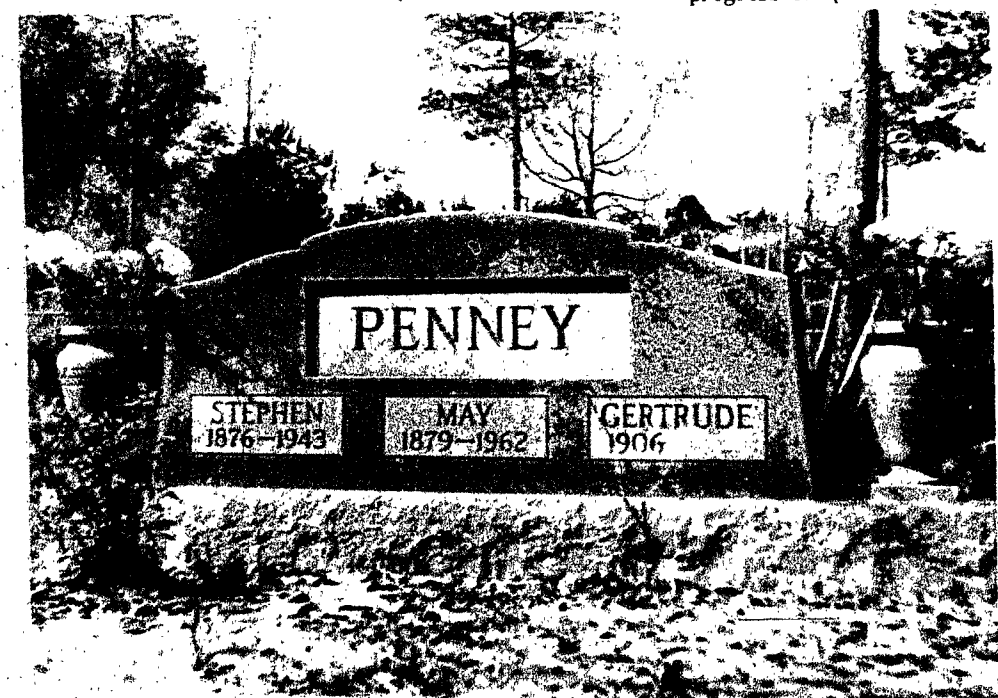

September of the same year Editor Moreau issued a magazine of The Sea Coast Echo, setting forth the advantages of "The Bay" in every possible way. These magazines went the ways of the four winds of heaven, and tho' not two years have elapsed since their publication, responses have arrived from every direction. Not long after the Echo Building was finished its second story was let out in offices, while the remaining space on its ground floor became The Merchants Bank, an institution which is proving most successful.

In the fall of the year just dead The Peerless Oyster Co., a new concern, sprang up as if by magic. At the same time The Coast Furniture and Supply Co. began its existence in a handsome two-story building at the corner of Front and Goodchildren streets.

This building is owned by Mrs. K. Edwards & Sons, who have also just completed a

Pass approves payment

The Pass Christian board of aldermen approved final payment of roughly $19,000 Tuesday night for street improvements in the city. The contractor, Bond Paving Company, and the engineer, Brown and Russell, were authorized payment upon completion of the project.

The board also accepted bids from the Tarpon Beacon for job printing and Blue Ribbon Tire Service for tires. The bids had been taken under study last month. The city also sold its junk cars for $500.

The aldermen tabled several matters, including an appointment on the school board. The board also tabled requests for funds for the transportation of senior citizens and for liability insurance for the city's policemen.

Also tabled was a request by Brown and Russell Engineers for payment for work done on a well. The request was tabled pending the well's completion.

Henry Easterling, who had been appointed in June to fill a vacancy on the city's Park Commission, was appointed to a full term at the meeting.

The board heard an objection from Louis P. Spier who owns the property at the corner of Market and Second Streets. The aldermen in last month's meeting voted to assess Spier's property $2,200 for the cost of demolishing a building there, termed "unsafe and a fire hazard". Spier's objection was referred to the city's attorney, Jason Floyd.

Finally, the board rejected requests for donations from the Bay St. Louis Little Theater, the state Coast Crime Commission, and the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra Guild.

Senator Eastland introduces bill

WASHINGTON — Senator James O. Eastland (D-Miss) introduced legislation this week designed to develop and promote America's beef industry.

Eastland's bill would provide for a program of promotion, development, research and consumer education intended to strengthen the beef industry's position in the marketplace. Its purpose is to maintain and expand the domestic and foreign markets for United States beef.

Eastland has maintained that the maintenance and expansion of existing markets and the development of new or improved markets is vital to the welfare of the cattle producers, as well as to the general economy of the nation.

The legislation provides for the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, with the consent of two-thirds of the cattle producers, to establish a 68-member Beef Board to administer projects for research, advertising, sales promotion and consumer education with respect to the beef industry.

The activities of the board are to be financed by an assessment based on the value of beef handled by the producer. But, according to Eastland, participation in the program is strictly voluntary. The assessments would be made in the form of a check-off at the cattle sale, but any producer not wishing to participate could request to have his money returned to him by the board," said Eastland.

"No one would be forced to take part in the program," Eastland told fellow legislators.

Under the bill the Secretary of Agriculture may order a referendum at any time to determine if the cattle producers wish to continue the program; or, he must conduct a referendum if ten percent or more of the cattle producers voting request a new referendum.

"The Beef Board's activities would be comparable to Cotton, Incorporated's efforts for the cotton industry and various dairy industry programs for marketing, research and promotion of the respective agricultural products," said Senator Eastland. "It would provide valuable service to our troubled beef industry."

D'Aquila elected

Henry J. D'Aquila defeated Mrs. Daisy Mitchell in a special election Saturday to fill the Long Beach school board post vacated by Jim Baker whose resignation became effective last Friday.

D'Aquila, who is the coordinator of the conferences and workshops at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park, will represent the outside territory on the school board.

He won the election with a margin of 101 votes over Mrs. Mitchell, an employee in the Gulfport city schools' Follow Through program. D'Aquila polled 310 votes to Mrs. Mitchell's 209.

Following his election Saturday, D'Aquila said, "I appreciate all the help I received, and I pledge to try and keep an excellent school system moving forward."

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

And, speaking of old times, we have been reading some fascinating material about prehistoric days along our seacoast. Things were different then, and if you've been complaining about a frosty day now and then in the past few weeks, prepare to really shiver, for you ain't seen nothin' yet!

According to scientists who have been studying such things for years, what we vaguely call "the ice age" was a phenomenon which occurred in various parts of the world not once, but time after time, at more or less regular periods, traceable over millions of years. According to the experts, the long period of warmth which the world has enjoyed for the past two million years is just part of the regular cycle between freezes and is now lapsing—slowly, thank goodness—into another period of deep ice and cold.

Naturally, when ice engulfed the world time after time over countless ages, there were also many changes in the land and sea areas of the globe. Slightly warmer water from the Gulf, for instance, moved sluggishly across the ocean to Africa, leaving everything north of the equator in the deepest part of the freeze. Movement of ice masses across the land created lakes and changed the shapes of mountains. Rocks, dirt and other debris carried by moving ice and deposited when the ice melted in the gradually warming atmosphere formed long ridges which, in turn, guided the water into rivers. Seeds preserved in the ice during the centuries-long cold, returned to life, and soon the warmed earth was covered with trees and other plant growth.

Now, to look at our own surroundings: in the last few hundred years of the latest ice age, water from the Gulf and the melting glaciers extended inland for miles to the rising country of mid-State. As the level of the Gulf slowly sank, the water was drained off, leaving a deep layer of sand and small rocks—and seeds from which grew the dense timberlands known to us. The topography, formed by the movement of glaciers and modified by erosion and the action of many rivers, has taken hundreds of years to settle into its present form and is still changing.

As it changes, the world is getting slowly colder as it heads into the next ice age. Creeping from the Poles, in conjunction with drastic atmospheric changes, ice again will blanket the world, possibly with the exception of favored spots near the equator, and the million-year cycle will start all over again. However, we do not expect to be around then to tell you what happens in Bay St. Louis.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

GRASS TETANY

Each year in recent years cattle have been lost grazing winter annuals, especially in the late winter or early spring. Two maladies causing some of this loss are "Grass Tetany" and "Nitrate Poisoning" and these are often confused by cattlemen according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

Nitrate poisoning is usually caused by the accumulation of high amounts of nitrate or non-protein nitrogen within the forage plant. It can occur any time but is most common in the late winter and spring.

Grass tetany affects ruminant animals, especially females, and is more likely to affect older animals. It usually occurs to cows that have just calved or are close to calving when they are just turned on lush green pastures. Grass tetany symptoms can be easily confused with milk fever. Affected animals walk stiffly and appear to stagger. They lose their appetite, appear dull, become nervous, have severe diarrhea and often go into convulsions. Treatment must be given at once or animal will die. Low levels of magnesium in the animal's blood serum is associated with grass tetany and is due to a low magnesium intake from the animal's diet. Low magnesium forage produced by winter and spring pastures are usually due to low soil magnesium levels.

Fall seeded small grain such as oats, wheat or rye as well as ryegrass are poor accumulators of magnesium and are most often the pastures where grass tetany occurs.

Plants appear to have difficulty absorbing magnesium under cool, wet conditions in the spring. After the average temperature remains above 57 degrees for six consecutive days, the danger of tetany is usually past. A sudden rise of temperature following a cool spree increases the danger of an outbreak. This outbreak usually occurs about 4 or 5 days following the end of the cool weather.

It appears that when pastures are excessive in potash and nitrogen and low in magnesium, the danger of grass tetany is increased. To reduce the likelihood of grass tetany both the proper amounts and balance of fertilizer nutrients are necessary. Dolomitic lime is the best source of magnesium for acid soils. On soils that do not need lime, magnesium can be applied as sulfate of potash-magnesia or magnesium sulfate which is commercially available. Short term increases in magnesium intake have been accomplished by dusting or spraying crop with calcined magnesite or magnesium oxide, but this is expensive and is suggested only under extreme conditions.

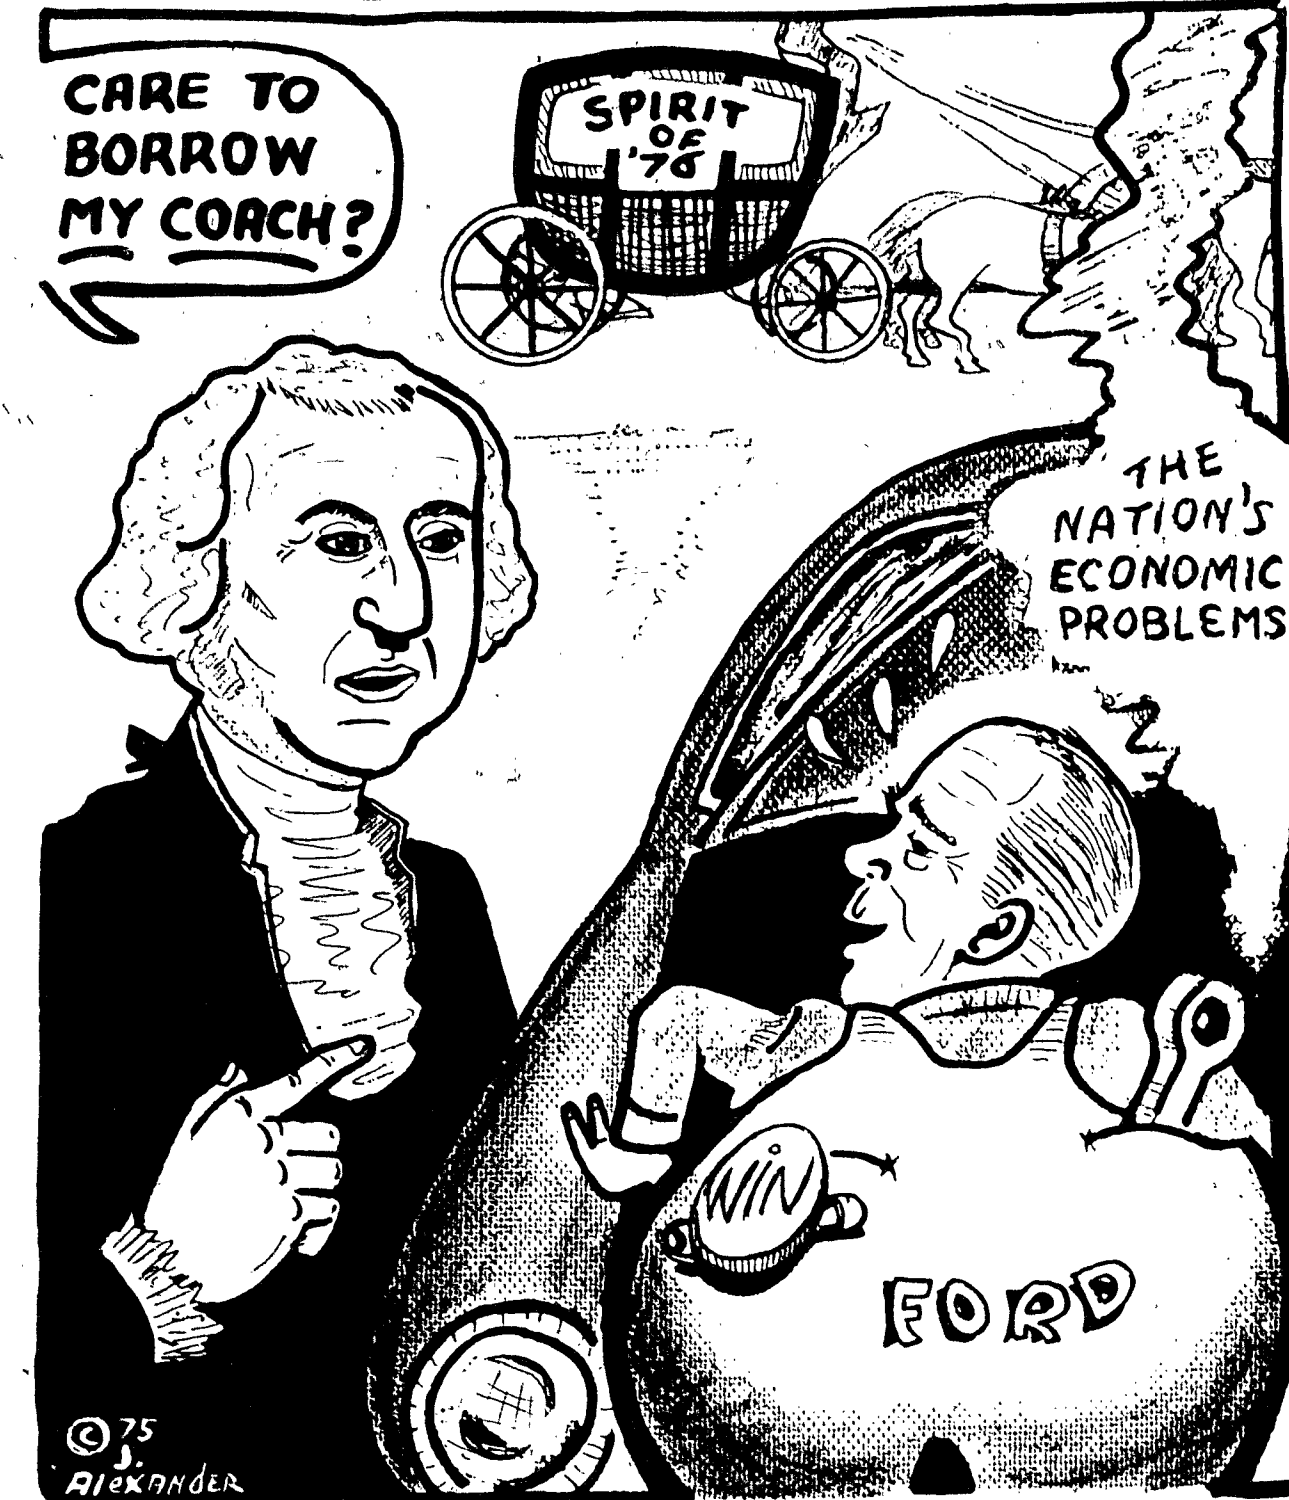

Balanced fertilization plus the feeding of high magnesium supplements during periods when environmental conditions are such that tetany may occur appear to be the best controls. A good supplement is a mixture of 40 lbs. magnesium oxide, 20 lbs. plain salt, 20 lbs. trace mineral salt and 20 lbs. steamed bone meal. Feed this mixture free choice as the only source of salt.

The feeding of supplemental magnesium does not solve the basic problem, only the raising of magnesium level in the soil can correct the long range problem and assure adequate magnesium in the grazing animal's diet.

JUST WHAT WE NEED TO GET US GOING

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

CONFRONTATION POLITICS

The way some of my colleagues in the Congress are demanding more time to develop alternatives to the President's energy proposals, you'd think we learned just yesterday that we have an energy crisis on our hands.

The sad fact of the matter is that Congress has known for at least fifteen months that we have huge energy problems and that something MUST be done soon to alleviate those problems.

The very moment the President came forth with his own energy package, however, many Congressmen were on their feet arguing for more time.

"Just 90 days," they pleaded. "Give us 90 days and we'll have a plan of our own."

Well, I share their concern about an oil import fee. I, too, abhor the thought of an import tax on oil, which would eventually increase the price of gasoline.

Accordingly, I voted FOR a measure that would delay such a tax for 90 days. I had no reservations about deferring the import fee itself, but I don't like the idea of giving Congress more time to develop alternatives.

I expressed just such a view in a recent Rules Committee meeting, where Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee was testifying for the bill.

"Mr. Chairman, I want to say at the outset that I am inclined to vote for this bill, but I am bothered that there are no alternatives before us," I told him. "I am very fearful that after this 90 day period is up, we will still have no concrete plans in the energy field."

Later in that same exchange with Chairman Ullman, I expressed my fear that Congress and the president would continue their "confrontation policy."

We don't need confrontation right now, I pointed out. We need a joint effort.

"A coordinated effort," the Chairman replied. "I fully agree. I think it would be a serious mistake to get the two branches of government into a confrontation stance at this time."

That was three weeks ago. Now, Chairman Ullman's Ways and Means Committee is contemplating a comprehensive energy plan formulated by the Democratic Task Force. It features a 40-to-50 cent gas tax coupled with a coupon system that would allot each vehicle a basic amount of gasoline each week.

In other words, a tax AND a rationing system!

That's hardly the way to avoid a confrontation. In fact, it's a sure bet to promote a confrontation.

While I don't like an oil import fee or a gasoline tax or a rationing system, I do think it is time for everyone to slow down long enough to talk about a compromise. Surely we can reach some sort of agreement and tackle this energy problem together.

After all, virtually everyone agrees on the basics. We all agree that we must encourage domestic exploration and increased production. Everyone talks about protecting the consumer, who must ultimately bear the brunt of any attack on the present energy situation. Perhaps we're too worried about interfering with the system work out its own problems. Maybe it's a strong case for getting the government out of the system.

Whatever the solution, it will take a concerted effort — not an effort promoted by proponents of confrontation politics.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

My fellow-townpeople will be happy to know that I have finally won in a Readers Digest Contest! Honestly, I don't know how they could afford it. Over a period of a great many years my mail box has been systematically deluged with advanced information about my chances to win: there were little tickets, numbers, certificates on chances, and those alluring illustrated descriptions of prizes — $100 a month for life — trips to far away places with strange sounding names — homes, cars — you know. You got them, too.

I have no idea how many dollars it cost the Readers Digest people to keep my mail box so full of facts about those possible prizes, nor how many stamps I placed on their return envelopes hastening my eager anticipation. However, right now I will address an two-cent envelope, past a ten-cent stamp on it, fill out a deposit slip for my account with the Hancock Bank and endorse and mail my check from the Readers Digest. Incidentally the check was their No. 33931140 and in the amount of TEN CENTS!

Legislative Report

with Rep. Earl Ladner

On Wednesday, February 5, the House approved House Bill 914. Upon approval by the Senate and the Governor this bill would authorize the Wildlife Heritage Committee to purchase 37,256 acres of land located in Jackson and George Counties for the purpose of a game refuge.

This past week the Mississippi House of Representatives took the first step toward forcing the U.S. Congress to call a constitutional convention to consider amending the U.S. Constitution to prohibit deficit spending by the Federal Government.

The resolution would require the approval of 33 other states before Congress would be required to call a convention. Approval of a constitutional amendment would require ratification by 38 states.

It is said that presently 37 of the 50 states have laws either prohibiting deficit spending or strictly limiting such spending.

Just let us know they're missing. And we'll replace them.

So you see, if Bonds can't make you feel secure, probably nothing will.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. 4% the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Work-study program offers greater college opportunities

MARTHA ATHANAEOS OF BAY ST. LOUIS works 10 hours a week as a receptionist in the Student Personnel Office at the University of Mississippi. She is one of 325 Ole Miss students who receive financial aid through the College Work-Study Program.

Tate said that this year more than ever early application may determine whether a student receives financial aid.

Ole Miss students who receive financial aid through employment may participate in the College Work-Study Program or receive part- or full-time employment on campus or in the Oxford area. Employment for spouses is also available.

Though her job doesn't involve journalism, Peggy said that it has aided her in getting stories for the campus newspaper, The Daily Mississippian.

"Working in the dean's office has helped me make a lot of contacts that I wouldn't have otherwise," said the Vicksburg junior.

Lynn, a freshman from Horn Lake, admitted that his duties in the Media Center don't add to his knowledge of accountancy, but added "without this job I couldn't go to school, and I do enjoy working here."

Grants and awards available through the Financial Aid Office include the federally-funded Basic Educational Opportunity Grant and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant; Law Enforcement Grants for full-time employees of law enforcement agencies; Non-resident Alumni Award, Academic Achievement Awards, and Music Merit Awards.

Basic Educational Opportunity Grants are available to students who began post-high school education after April 1, 1973, though there are exceptions. Basic Grants are intended to be the "floor" of a financial aid package and may be combined with other forms of aid in order to meet the full costs of education. The amount of the Grant, which may range from $50 to $800 during the academic year 1975-76, is determined on the basis of the student's and his family's financial resources. Deadline for submitting a Basic Grant application is March 15.

Loans are provided through federal programs such as National Direct Student Loans, Federally Insured Student Loans, and Health Professional Student Loans. University Loans and loans for students planning careers in law enforcement are also available.

More than 100 general, service and special scholarships, ranging from $25 to $1,500 are available through the Ole Miss Financial Aid Department, including University and Regional Scholarships, Band, Foreign Student, Law and Graduate Scholarships.

Mr. Tate said it is a mistake for students not to apply because they think family income is too high.

"We encourage students to apply and let us decide whether they are qualified to receive financial aid. Need is based on such things as expenses and debts in addition to income," he said.

Current and prospective students should obtain the Parents' Confidential Statement or the Student's Financial Statement from counselors and send it to the College Scholarship Service by March 15; institutional deadline for financial aid applications is April 15. Applications received after deadlines will be considered if funds are available.

Environment threatens tourism

The possibility of the destruction of a $28 billion a year tourist industry is a very real one the National Wildlife Federation has warned. The federation has cited the continuing destruction of the natural environment as a major threat to the industry in a recent article in "International Wildlife."

"The more tourism succeeds, the more it cannibalizes the very basis of its existence—the wilderness, the unspoiled landscapes, the quaint villages, the unique cultures that drew visitors in the first place," says Ann Crittendon in the March-April issue of the magazine, published by the National Wildlife Federation.

The invasion of one-time "paradises" by throngs of tourists, according to Crittendon, has polluted indigenous cultures, ravaged native habitat, exploited rare animals, and even caused some governments to restrict incoming travelers.

Tourism itself is not the danger, says the author, but the overzealousness of tourists causes serious problems. She cites garbage on once desolate beaches, a flashbulb debasing the significance of a tribal ceremony, the wanton killing of rare species of wildlife, as examples of tourists hurting the natural environment which originally attracted them.

The head of state of St. Vincent and the Grenadines, a tiny island chain in the Lesser Antilles, has flatly rejected mass tourism despite the country's low 1972 per capita income of $225 a year. Twenty-eight thousand visitors came to St. Vincent in 1972, only 7,000 more than ten years earlier, the magazine reports. In comparison, tourist-hungry Barbados jumped from 50,000 to 300,000 over the same period.

If the beauty and variety which created the tourist industry is destroyed, concludes Crittendon, "it isn't hard to figure out that tourism itself could be second."

MR. ED FINK ACCEPTS DELIVERY OF HIS NEW CAMARO FROM TURAN-LANE CHEVROLET SALESMAN LELAND LADNER.

Mr. Ed Fink of Bay St. Louis is a Physicist at Lockheed Electronics, NSTL, was interested in trading in his pickup truck on a Camaro where he could get the best trade-in allowance. Mr. Fink stopped at Turan-Lane Chevrolet and talked to salesman Leland Ladner who was able to give him a good deal on a new Camaro. Mr. Fink who also trains guard dogs in Louisiana and on the Mississippi Gulf Coast is very happy with his new Camaro and also the way he was treated by all the folks at Turan-Lane Chevrolet.

Operation share

Members of the "Operation Share" Home Visiting Team began a contact mission Sunday, visiting the unchurched in Bay St. Louis and inviting them to a special series of religious programs. Pictured are volunteers: (l-r) Mrs. Lillian LaBauve, Mrs. Bonita Cabel, Mrs. Mary Lee Lagarde and Miss Gloria Lee. The religious programs will be held Sunday through Friday, March 16-21 at Our Lady of the Gulf and St. Rose de Lima Churches.

Mississippi College receives science grant

CLINTON -- Mississippi College has received a National Science Foundation grant of $13,940 that will enable 30 high ability high school students the opportunity of participating in an enrichment program in mathematics and biology this summer.

The major grant, the second for Mississippi College over the past three years, is for support of the Foundation's Student Science Training Projects. NSF grants totaling more than $1.7 million support 105 such programs in 43 states and offer science oriented high school students an experience with college-level instruction and laboratory work.

USO sponsors contest

An international songwriting competition for military personnel, the 1975 American Song Festival is being sponsored by the USO, said Council President Paul Gilly. Prizes of cash and merchandise amounting to $129,776 will be given to winners as well as the opportunity to have their music exposed to leaders of the music industry.

"We believe that the American Song Festival will be of great interest to many of our customers," Gilly continued. "It has proven itself as a major opportunity for the undiscovered songwriter and we are pleased to cooperate in making it easy for people to enter this creative competition."

The competition is open to all, Gilly said. "Entrants do not have to know how to write music. All they have to do is have their songs recorded on a cassette tape."

The 1975 American Song Festival competition embraces the entire spectrum of contemporary music with six categories: rock, easy listening, middle of the road, country, folk, soul and rhythm and blues; and gospel. To commemorate the 200th birthday of the nation, there will also be a special bicentennial song competition. Amateur contestants will compete against amateurs, and professionals against professionals.

The judges decision option is another important Festival innovation. If this option is exercised, the judges will place the song in the category they feel it is best suited. The panel of jurists for the '75 competition will consist of the most respected, most authoritative and most qualified professions and executives in the industry.

For application blanks and more detailed information, contact the USO Center in Biloxi or Gulfport.

Penney history illuminates past

new saw mill on the Edwards'
Bayou.

While the above improvements were taking place, The Commercial Club, a body composed of the prominent men of the town, was organized for the purpose of booming Bay St. Louis in every possible way.

The man whose motto is:
"What was good enough for my grandfather is good enough for me" had better not apply for membership in this club, for the "mossbacks" are not tolerated by these public-spirited and up-to-date men.

With her churches of most all denominations, college, academy, splendid public school, Commercial Club,
Yacht Club, numerous grocery and dry goods stores,
Hancock County and Merwells, saw mills, Ice and orchards, pecan orchards, poultry farms, stock farms,

and last but by no means least,
automobiles - Bay St. Louis can take her place in the front as well. Signed Gertrude

Ole Miss opens dental school

Construction of a new School of Dentistry at the University of Mississippi, scheduled to open in September, will begin this summer.

The $10.8 million building package includes a five-story dental education center and a classroom addition to the north wing of the Medical Center complex, Hinds County and City of Jackson each provided $1,250,000 toward the two projects. The balance came from state appropriations.

The Mississippi dental school, authorized by the 1973 Legislature, hopes to train the community-oriented professional who will practice general dentistry in the state.

The site for the dental education building is on the north side of the UMC campus. The five-story structure will have support services and several small classrooms on the first floor. Comprehensive patient care facilities will be on second, third and fourth floors, with administrative offices and student laboratories on fifth. There are two lecture halls seating 250 students.

An elevated, enclosed walkway will connect the building to the classroom addition. Medical Center Vice Chancellor Dr. Norman C. Nelson said the new learning resources will be used by all UMC schools.

"Using this new addition as a shared facility for the basic science instruction which many of our students require will avoid costly duplication and make maximum use of our physical and teaching resources," Dr. Nelson said.

Anticipated completion date on the two projects is July, 1977. Until then, dental students will share existing learning facilities with the Schools of Medicine and Health Related Professions.

The new dental school currently has accreditation eligible status from the Council on Dental Education. If first students are admitted in September as anticipated, the date will be just 18 months after the appointment of Dr. Wallace V. Mann as dean, one of the shortest periods on record for establishing a dental school. In recent years, most new schools have taken from three to six years to admit the first class.

"We've come a long way in a short time because Mississippians want this dental school," Dr. Mann said. "They have given continuing, vigorous support since the legislature authorized the school's establishment."

Ten full-time faculty members are already on the school staff, and an admissions committee is screening some 500 applications, including more than 150 from Mississippi, for the first class. Strong preference will go to state residents.

The Mississippi school plans to accept 25 first-year students initially, then phase in increases in entering class size to a maximum of 50.

Medical hotline

W. W. Thames, center, representing the Mississippi March of Dimes, recently presented a check to the University of Mississippi Medical Center to help support the medical hotline between physicians and the Newborn Center at the University of Mississippi Medical Center. Dr. Alfred E. Brann, left, Director of the Newborn Center at the University Medical Center, and Dr. Norman C. Nelson, right, Vice Chancellor of the University Medical Center, accepted the gift on behalf of the Medical Center.

Public meeting called on city annexation

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce committee that is studying the annexation of area north of the city limits will hold a public meeting March 11 at 7:30 p.m. for Green Acres residents.

The meeting will be the first in a series scheduled with residents of Green Acres, Pecan Park, Daughtery Park, and Better Homes area.

The committee is hoping to provide a forum for discussion of unification of the unincorporated areas.

C. T. Green and David Serrato will serve as co-chairmen of the group.

March of Dimes contributes to "hot line"

Mississippi Chapters of The National Foundation-March of Dimes have made a grant to the "hot line" between physicians and the Newborn Center at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson.

A check was presented to the center by W. W. Thames, Jackson, chairman of The Hinds County Chapter of The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

The "hot line" enables any physician or nurse, anywhere in Mississippi, to call the Newborn Center for help, advice and consultation regarding any problem encountered in the care of a newborn.

The "hot line" at the center is manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week, allowing physicians and related medical personnel to call for consultations as needed.

It was originally financed by the Mississippi Regional Medical Program and then by the State Board of Health, which still provides ongoing support. Added funds from organizations like The National Foundation-March of Dimes, aid in continuing this service for Mississippi.

Group plans St. Patrick's parade

The annual St. Patrick's Day Parade, sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association, has been scheduled for 2 p.m. March 15 and will include floats and maskers from various local communities said Archie Diebold, Civic Association secretary.

Any interested group can participate in the parade with floats, bands or marching groups, and prizes will be awarded in the different categories. The parade will begin on Central Ave. and back to the corner of Central and St. Joseph St.

Also planned for this year is the Grand Ball Saturday, March 8, at the American Legion Hall in Waveland. The Grand Marshal and his colleen, whose identity is not revealed until the parade day, will be presented at this gathering.

This year the colleen has been selected by a special committee of the Civic Association. In the past she has been the junior with the highest grades in either Bay High, Coast Episcopal or Our Lady of the Gulf, but because federal law prohibits the release of grades, she will now be selected by committee.

The American Legion Hall will be open at 8 p.m. and the ball will begin at 9 p.m. At this time the doors will be closed until the Grand March is concluded.

Earth Day proclaimed

Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier and the board of aldermen issued a proclamation Monday proclaiming March 8 Earth Day.

The resolution said that the day should be marked by a "massive, concerted, and coordinated effort" on the part of the community to clean up the city. The litter on the streets and in vacant lots was singled out as prime targets of clean-up.

"Not only the individual citizen should join in this campaign," said the mayoral resolution, "but the business community should devote more attention to the area (of beautification)."

Car classes conducted

Car maintenance classes for ladies will be conducted each Tuesday at McCaffrey's Auto Body Shop in Gulfport. The free "Powder Puff Clinic" is being sponsored by Mississippi Automotive Maintenance and Repair and McCaffrey's Auto Shop.

The classes begin at 7 p.m. and last until 10 p.m.

Those graduating from Waveland in the February session were Merle and Kim Stieffell and Julie Smith. Karen Buehler of Bay St. Louis also completed the February session.

the performing arts

by JAMES BOOKER

Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier, (a native of Bay Saint Louis) is presently urging the Pass Christian area to get actively involved in establishing organizations that will support, maintain and enrich the performing arts.

Saucier was an invited guest at Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church, of which Father John Ellard is the pastor. Following the termination of the Evening Church Services at Mother of Mercy, the mayor pointed out to the congregation, that such innovative approaches as the Bicentennial Soul Mass, (Planned by the choir in conjunction with the nation's 200th anniversary), should make an all-out effort to secure grants from such Philanthropic organizations as the Rockefeller Foundation, The National Endowment for The Arts, The Ford Foundation, et cetera., "Within our region, there is an enormous reservoir of cultural resources that could easily go down the drain, without support from organizations that encourage the creative arts. Since our state proudly boasts the cultural roots of such artistic giants as Aretha Franklin, Elvis Presley, Muddy Waters, Margie Joseph ( of Gulfport) Charley Pride and countless others in the celebrity limelight, from all indications there are obviously many more undiscovered sources of creative ability."

The mayor at one time, was a member of our locality's first integrated commercial music aggregation. New Orleanians have "turned on" to the Crescent City's most recently acquired radio station, WNNR, and announced the appointment of Larry McKinley as Program Director. Before serving as Program Director, Larry served on the staff of Mayor Moon Landrieu, as Public Relations Consultant. During the 50's and 60's, he was known to be New Orleans most widely known disc-jockey, and enjoyed success by remaining high on the surveys conducted from time to time. McKinley was also program director of station WYLD, (even in the embryological stages, when the call letters of the station were WMYR.) Such a multi talented individual would never be content serving in only one capacity; therefore, Larry McKinley after twenty years or more embarked upon a political career, occasionally sponsoring campaign committees for various politicians. The most recent political figure being Eddie Sapir, who won election as Municipal Court Judge.

The most highly impressed public figure, to be affected by Larry's charming ways and utilization of finesse is Louisiana's lady of soul, Margie Joseph, who has suddenly climbed to the top of the charts with her newest single "Words Are Impossible". Margie also has a forthcoming album to be released March 3, on Atlantic Records, entitled "Margie". Her first hit single, "Let's Stay Together", outsold the original version which had been recorded by male vocalist Al Green. Margie is now slated for an extensive European tour, establishing her as our own "Southern Ambassador of international sound".

She hails from Gulfport, Mississippi. Margie is also Larry McKinley's wife and protegee. Incidentally, Margie and Larry were invited to perform at the Governor Edwin Edwards mansion, July 4, last year. Since then, both husband and wife have established a healthy relationship with the Governor, and in all probability will perform encore performances at the Mansion from time to time. Seems like the rewards of constant effort and involvement in the right endeavors pays off for those who are serious and patient.

Bicentennial film reviews harbors

A film saluting the nation's Bicentennial, "Harbors of America", has been released by Mercury Marine of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin for showing by schools and clubs. The 27-minute film traces historical events which occurred in America's famous harbors on the eastern seaboard.

Highlights of "Harbors of America" include: a visit to Strawberry Banke, a restoration of the original harbor area of Portsmouth, New Hampshire; Baltimore's

Ft. McHenry where Francis Scott Key composed the National Anthem; the immigration headquarters at Ellis Island, New York; and portions of Boston's famous Freedom Trail, the locale of many momentous events at the beginning of the Revolutionary War.

"Harbors of America", a 16mm, sound-color movie, is available from Telefilm Ltd., P.O. Box 709, Homosassa Springs, Florida 32647.

Gulf Coast offers opportunities to local artists

Local talent

Pass Christian artist Mrs. Phyllis Williams Levy displays one of her still life paintings. She is presently displaying a large collection of her work for the entire month of March at Pass Christian Library as part of the Gulf Coast Art Council's Spring Festival of the Arts.

by Anita Dinwiddle

New interest in art along the Gulf Coast, in painting, sculpture and many other arts and crafts, is developing this season with particular interest on work by local artists. Due to the efforts of the Gulf Coast Arts Council, many local artists will have the chance to exhibit their work in public libraries.

Mrs. Phyllis Williams Levy of Pass Christian is one of the first local artists to organize an exhibit of her work as part of the Spring Festival of the Arts. Mrs. Levy currently has 33 of her paintings on display for the month of March in the Pass Christian public library. The paintings are categorized by the artist as abstract expressionist works and cover a range from still lifes, to landscapes, to entirely abstract studies in color and motion.

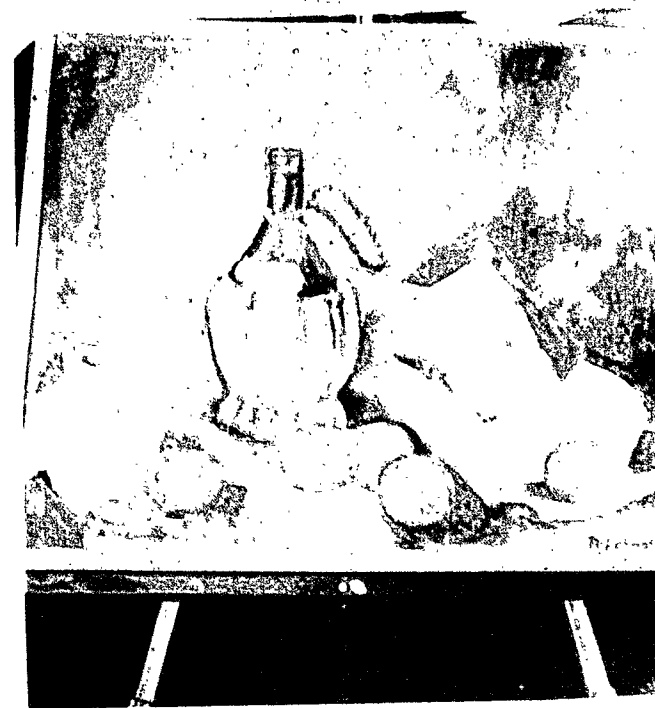

"I like the abstract school of painting because I can express realism in an abstract way," Mrs. Levy said. "Most people like realistic painting better than the abstract, but I feel that you can really express more of your feeling about a subject by concentrating on the relation of shapes and contrasts rather than just painting what it looks like."

Mrs. Levy is a New Orleans native who moved to the Gulf Coast three and a half years ago. She has studied art all of her life in Texas and Louisiana and has been an art teacher as well as a successful exhibitor. Her background includes study under famous Mississippi artist, Mary Hull, and many others including James Steg, Elliott Twery, Elizabeth Friedenberg and Alvin Sella. She is constantly working on her painting, she says, and she particularly likes life on the Mississippi Coast and finds it a good source of ideas for paintings.

"Since I have been here I have been fascinated by the shrimp boats," the artist said. "I have also attempted many times to paint the fog that we are so familiar with. It has impressed me so much and several of my 'misty' landscapes resulted from observing the colors and shapes that the fog creates."

The hardest part of being a good artist is to come up with ideas for paintings, Mrs. Levy said. She said that most ideas come from simply observing ordinary sights and being able to see not only the objects but to be able to recognize the relation of colors and shapes and transfer it to the canvas.

"I put composition and space above everything else in my paintings. I particularly like to work with objects in space and make every object look so distinct that you think you could pick them up," she said.

Composition first

This realistic piece from Mrs. Levy's collection stresses composition and the relation of objects in space. The 33-piece exhibit is now on display at Pass Christian Library.

paintings on display in the library are the result of this type of composition.

Each member of the Pass Christian Art Association will have the same opportunity as Mrs. Levy to display their work for one month in the public library. This program will run continuously until all members have exhibited their work.

School board suit threatened

imagine that they would have to let the present board members continue to serve."

If the plaintiffs win their case against the school board, it may take some time for new elections to be ordered, because the suit also seeks to enjoin Hancock election commissioners from conducting a new election until the state law making school board members run county wide has gained federal approval. The suit asks that the case be placed on the federal docket for a hearing by a three judge panel.

"The only thing we can do right now is to continue to serve on the board until we get some official word on it," said Board Chairman Monvel Cuevas. "If a federal judge tells me I can't serve, then I won't serve, but until then I'm not going to do anything about it."

The Hancock County voters bringing the suit against the board are Joseph H. Spiers, Tommie B. Spiers, Ola E. Moran, Felix Ladner, Kenneth R. Hoda, Jerry M. Spiers, Kelly Necaise, Oswald and Berlyn Cuevas, Arnel J. Cuevas, O. T. Cuevas and Harold F. Necaise.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bayside Park Volunteer Fire Department is planning a rummage sale at the Enchanted Land on Highway 90 Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 7-9 at 9 a.m.

The group is also having a membership drive.

Senior Citizens Happenings

Don Mauffray
Recreation Director

Another month has come and gone and so has our last full month of winter. In only 15 days we will welcome the advent of Spring with its colorful array of beautiful flowers. Even now spring is in the air and with it that yearning to get outdoors and help Mother Nature in her efforts to adorn our Gulf Coast with a mantle of loveliness. Best of all, it is that time of year to get some wholesome exercise in our vegetable gardens. As soon as weather permits we will be planting our Senior Citizens Community Garden on property loaned us by J. P. Compretta and the ground prepared for us by his father, Joe Compretta, Sr. Again I'm asking any of you senior citizens who want to get a little sunshine and fresh air planting and working in our garden to please get in touch with me. Our scheduled gardening time is 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

We were saddened this week by the sudden death of our faithful and tireless square dance instructor, Maurice Puchot of Waveland. He and his lovely wife, Odette, were ardent square dancers and attended many festivals along the coast from Mobile to New Orleans. Mr. Puchot's passing is a great loss to our community and especially to our Square Dance Group. We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to Odette and her family.

Our monthly bingo and birthday parties were well attended as we were always blessed with beautiful weather on those days. Betty Carroll entertained us, as always, at the parties with her lovely music. She also played for our Senior Citizens Gospel Group when we sang for 9:00 o'clock Mass at St. Augustine's Seminary on Sunday, February 9th. We sincerely appreciate the invitation extended us to sing for the Mass. It was indeed a privilege as it also was for us to sing this past Sunday, March 2, at the First Missionary Baptist Church on Sycamore Street. There Ludwig "Pop" Mulling accompanied our Gospel Group on the piano as he does every Wednesday afternoon when we sing at Gulfview Haven Nursing Home. I want to take this means to thank Rev. Lawrence Collings, Mrs. Ethel Christmas and the other church members for the warm hospitality extended us and the delicious refreshments following the services. Thanks to Jim DeMars for picking up the participants on our Senior Citizens Bus.

MRS. ROBERT DAVIS

Seuzeneau - Davis

St. Bartholemew's Church, Park Avenue, New York, was the setting for the Feb. 22 wedding of Miss Diane Manon Seuzeneau, daughter of Mrs. George Louis Seuzeneau Jr., of Bay St. Louis, Miss., and the late Mr. Seuzeneau to Robert Wheelless Davis, son of Mrs. Charles Louis Davis II, Austin, Tex., and the late Dr. Davis.

The Rev. Andrew J. W. Mullins officiated at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony.

Arrangements of spring flowers and English ivy decorated the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law Donald E. Lagarde Jr., of New Orleans and Covington, La. She wore a gown of ivory peau de soie fashioned with an empire waist and round neckline trimmed with Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls. The bell sleeves and princess silhouette which flowed into a cathedral length train were appliqued with lace and pearls and her cathedral length veil of French silk illusion was bordered with Alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and English ivy.

The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a boutonniere of baby's breath and English ivy.

Wallace Kimbrough Davis, Austin, Tex., served his brother as best man. Ushers were William C.M. Kivian and George S. Michnard, both of New York, and T. Joseph Falgout, Galveston, Tex.

Spring flowers and ivy decorated the New York Junior League for the reception following the ceremony.

Mrs. Seuzeneau received guests wearing a floor length empire style gown of pearl gray silk fashioned with a high neckline trimmed with a band of sequins.

The mother of the groom chose a floor length pale pink silk crepe dress. Both mothers wore pink camellia corsages.

The couple will reside in Houston, Tex.

These animals are not housebroken, the association reports, and can cause health problems. Some of them may be disease carriers and cause a gastro-intestinal infection, salmonellosis.

The association also cautioned that giving such pets to little children often results in unknowing cruelty such as accidental broken legs and crushed wings.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society is asking all Hancock County residents not to give rabbits, chicks or ducklings as Easter gifts. The American Veterinary Medical Association has taken a public stand opposing these animals as gifts saying they rarely survive in a home environment. Many end up in an animal shelter which is already too overcrowded to accommodate them, the association says.

Garden Club presents first two homes

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club is continuing preparation for the "28th Annual Spring Pilgrimage of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs", beginning March 19. Local chairman Mrs. Charles H. Elliot has finalized the presentation of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver V. Baldwin located at 806 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis. According to available current public records, this property was a portion of a land grant from the United States in 1888. Historians, however, have found written records in 1781 and 1807 which pre-date this first recorded transfer in 1828.

Complete rehabilitation has been the key note in the Baldwin home, one of the older coast homes, after the tremendous damage by Hurricane Camille. Approaching the structure from the beach, the facade, dominated by dormer windows, is enhanced by landscaping and attention to black and white contrast of definitive painting.

The hallway, lighted by a brass and porcelain chandelier, allows a perfect setting for an oil portrait of Mrs. Baldwin by Clay Parker of New Orleans. A sky light provides additional sunlight during the day and moonlight at night above a spiral stairway.

The bedrooms on the right of the hallway contain family antiques and acquisitions of the owners. The left side of the home, including the living and dining room sections, continues the antique motif of the dwelling, with the exception of a modern kitchen done in early American.

Also to be opened to the Pilgrimage this week will be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cresson, 242 St. Charles St., Bay St. Louis. This home has been vacant for approximately six years and has been completely renovated. The collection of many antiques adds to the southern architecture of the building.

The grounds of the Cresson summer home are exceedingly well-planned to reflect age of the home, including a rustic fence which covers a steel fence of modern design.

At the entrance to the house there are full shutters, in contrasting color to the house proper, a design which continues in the immediate hallway of full length French windows behind the shutters.

From the hallway, is entrance to the dining room and living room, flanked on both sides by bedrooms and ending in the kitchen area with its companion breakfast nook.

The living room is treated with a subdued green tinted paneling devised by the owner, to increase the appearance of refinished floors.

The kitchen of utilitarian design uses a geo floral scheme for wall treatment with dominant coral coloring. The adjoining breakfast nook complements the kitchen with accessories that add to the color attractiveness.

First pilgrimage stop

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver V. Baldwin, 806 South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, will be the first home visited in the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs Spring Pilgrimage.

Bicentennial star

Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet models the "bicentennial star" skirt a handmade piecework apparel made in Maine. The skirt was a feature attraction at the bicentennial fashion show held in Ocean Springs last week.

DAR holds fashion show

Fashions at the time of the American Revolution were modeled by members of the Gulf Coast Daughters of the American Revolution at a State Conference of the Sons of the American Revolution Saturday, March 1, in Ocean Springs.

The first dress presented was the Revolutionary Bicentennial dress, a Paris design introduced to the United States at the time of the Revolutionary War by Benjamin Franklin. It was particularly popular because of a new innovation called a tilting hoop which allowed ladies of the time to enter carriages without showing their calves. The reproduction of the dress was made in Los Angeles for use in period films and will soon be sent to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. to be a part of a collection of clothes of the United States' 200 year history.

A second item modeled at the show was a piecework skirt made by Fisherman's Cross of Maine. The red, white and blue skirt is an authentic hand designed and handmade piecework apparel in the bicentennial star design.

Both outfits presented in the show were worn by Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet, a member of the local DAR chapter and currently the hostess at Rosalie, the state shrine in Natchez.

Bay theatre opens with "Little Foxes"

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will begin its 1975 season with Lillian Hellman's play "The Little Foxes", a drama about a turn-of-the-century southern family. The play will be presented March 20, 21 and 22 at the theatre on Boardman Ave.

In the production Emily deMontluzin repeats her performance of the gentle aristocrat Birdie Hubbard with Reverend Jay Decker, playing her bullying husband, Oscar. Other members of the cast are Pete Chapman as Ben Hubbard, Nancy Gex as Regina Giddens, Douglas Koger as Horace Giddens, Ed Craig as Mr. Marshall, Mac McDonald as Leo Hubbard, Becky Markel as Alexandra Giddens, Pat Schott as Addie and Teddy Stechmann as Cal.

Burt Barrett is the director of the play. Florence Hughes Dyer is producer. The technical director and designer of the set is Mark Horne. He is assisted by Vic Frankiewicz, John Holmes, and Faith Koger. Kathy Griffon is in charge of props. Season tickets for Bay St. Louis Little Theatre may be purchased from Mrs. Sam Cuevas or Mrs. Wilma Keefe, or they may be purchased at the Theatre. Single tickets are also available at the door on the night of each performance.

DAR win state and national awards

The Gulfcoast Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution received the State Gold certificate and the National Silver Honor Roll certificate for highest performance at the organization's 69th state conference. Mrs. Robert Bird, regent of the chapter accepted the awards.

Mrs. M. Tate Thigpen, first vice-regent, announced that 63 of the 66 chapters throughout Mississippi attended the convention.

Garden club plans show

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will have a show-and-tell mini flower show Thursday, March 13, at 2 p.m. following the regular meeting. The theme of the show will be "It's always spring... somewhere". Entries in the contest can be made in two divisions, artistic design or horticulture. Artistic design will include either fresh plant material or dried plant material. In the horticulture division will be annuals, perennials, roses, bulbs, corms or green or blooming pot plants.

Judges for the contest will be Mrs. Dan Russell and Mrs. Paul Miller.

St. Clare's Parish News

Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish introduced a new member, Mrs. Hubert Lytell, at its monthly meeting held Tuesday, Feb. 25 in Costello Hall in Waveland.

Beautification of Fort Rosalie, the state's bicentennial project, was reported well underway with pledges including entrance gates and sacrists, four monuments for the gardens, a wrought iron garden bench, a four poster bed and tester, an antebellum doll, a gazebo, 11,500 bricks for use in putting down walkways, and over $1000 to be used at the discretion of the planners. The Douglas brothers of Hattiesburg, one an architect specializing in landscape and the other an archaeologist have been named by the Rosalie beautification committee to submit plans for the development of the shrine.

Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet, serving as Rosalie Chairman for the Gulfcoast Chapter, had obtained the largest number of cash contributions toward the beautification program. She also had the greatest number of inches of publicity for the organization during the 1973-74 year.

Natchez's invitation to host the State Conference, scheduled for February 10-12, 1976, was accepted. It was agreed that Natchez, birthplace of Mississippi's DAR and home of the DAR Shrine, Rosalie, should have the honor of celebrating the Bicentennial year. Tupelo's invitation to host the 1977 Conference was also accepted. Governor William L. Waller, made the opening address at the convention.

Mrs. Erich Zwertschek, a naturalized citizen, was principal speaker at the National Defense luncheon. Wearing the national dress of Rumania, Mrs. Zwertschek gave an account of the difficulties she encountered in learning to speak English, and trying to cope with the American Way of life. The Mississippi DAR, reporting a membership of 4,626, has planned a program for this year reviewing the lives of 34 revolutionary women to emphasize the role of women in the nation's history.

Bicentennial projects adopted by the DAR National Society, will include in addition to the many state contributions, refurbishment of Independence Hall in Philadelphia, and the commission of a mural in the U.S. Capitol in Washington.

Many of the DAR bicentennial preparations were begun in 1969.

Representing the Gulfcoast Chapter at the convention were Miss Lucy Ewing, Mrs. Fred Siquel, Mrs. James Q. Coker, Mrs. Robert Bird, Mrs. Dalton B. Shourds, Mrs. Roy J. Jones, and Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet.

by David Pierson
At least 11 state powerlifting records fell in the Mississippi Powerlift Meet held Saturday at St. Stanislaus. Joseph (Doc) Rhodes of Bay St. Louis, who is a leading qualifier for the Pan-American games next month in Puerto Rico, led the record-breaking event with a grand slam in the 148-pound weight class.

The state championship meet, which drew a full house of more than 200 spectators, featured six teams and 37 lifters. Tournament director Brother Bennett S.C., who has been directing the state meets for several years, was pleased with the turnout. "It was the largest crowd ever," he said, "and the audience was really involved."

By example Bennett cited the crowd's reaction to Rhodes' last lift.

"When Doc stepped up on the platform, a hush came over the audience. And when he started going up with the weight, the crowd started shouting 'Pull! Pull! It was really something to see.'"

Rhodes, who is a Bay St. Louis native, won the best lifter in the lightweight division with that lift. Larry Plumlee took home the best lifter trophy in the heavyweight class. Both Rhodes and Plumlee represented the Mississippi Ironmen, the first-place team in the meet.

The St. Stanislaus lifters placed second in team competition with teams from Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida also represented in the competition.

Mike Blaize of the St. Stanislaus lifters and Frank and Richard Venturini of the Ironmen set new state records in the 123- and 132-pound weight classes.

Blaize set records in the squat, the dead lift, and the total weight in the 123-pound weight class. Frank Venturini, a second-place finisher in the 123 class, broke the bench press record. Richard Venturini broke records in the bench press, the squat, and the total score in the 132-pound weight class.

But the highlight of the day's action was Doc Rhodes setting new records in all four categories of the 148-pound class. Rhodes' total of 1,415 pounds lifted not only set a new record but also greatly enhanced his chances to represent the U.S. in the Pan-American games in April.

Rhodes recently dropped down from the 165-pound weight class because of a back injury and has since won three straight events in four months in the 148-pound weight class. His totals have increased in those months from 1,330 pounds to 1,415 in the state event. Brother Bennett feels that Doc will eventually reach the 1,500 pound plateau, surpassing the existing record of 1,430.

The state meet featured closed-circuit television for the lifters, an innovation which Brother Bennett feels will soon become a standard addition at national tournaments.

The meet also marked the end of another feature. It was the last seven-lift meet in powerlifting. The national AAU will return to the nine-lift meet which gives each lifter two more chances to achieve his best totals in each of the three categories.

The winners in the nine weight classes and their totals are as follows:
123-pound class: MIKE BLAIZE (800), Frank Venturini (775), Clay Chetta (695).

148-pound class: JOSEPH RHODES (1415), Lew Durant (1190), Philip Kobetz (1110).

165-pound class: RAYMOND KOBETZ (1205), Gary Pierce (1200), Jimmy Peyton (1185).

181-pound class: GLEN

LABORDE (1320), Roger QUINN (1345), Wyatt Sharp (1180), Dudley Grantham (1145).

198-pound class: ROGER

Matt Romito, a senior at St. Stanislaus, deadlifts 380 pounds in Saturday's powerlifting meet to edge out John Ludlow for second-place in the 132-pound class. Romito's dead lift was the best in his class.

220-pound class: LARRY PLUMLEE (1600), Kenny Isabelle (1350), Richard Moore (1190).
242-pound class: KARL FRANCIS (1515), Conrad Cotter (1400).
Heavyweight class: ROBERT E. HUGHES (1520), Robert Lindsey (1095).

Joseph (Doc) Rhodes grimaces as he strains to dead lift 610 pounds, a total that helped him break the existing state record and made him a leading qualifier for the Pan-American games next year. The Bay St. Louis native totalled 1,415 pounds in last Saturday's powerlifting meet at St. Stanislaus.

Volleyball tournament scheduled

The Our Lady's Academy Athletic Club is sponsoring a girls' volleyball tournament starting at 8 p.m. Saturday. There will be two tournament brackets, one for seventh through ninth grade teams and the other for 10th through 12th grade teams. All teams will have six players with no more than four substitutes.

St. Stanislaus nixes tourney

Brother Louis Joseph, athletic director at St. Stanislaus, said last week that an invitation extended to the St. Stanislaus basketball team to participate in the Alhambra Catholic Invitation Tournament in Cumberland, Maryland on March 20-23, could not be accepted.

The reason given by Brother Louis Joseph was that a post-season out-of-state game must be sanctioned by the National Federation of State Activities Association. Since the Alhambra Tournament did not have this required sanction, the participation of the St. Stanislaus basketball team is not allowed by the Mississippi Activities Association. basketball team, coached by Bob Cuccaro, finished the season with a 21-6 record. Cuccaro has served as basketball coach at St. Stanislaus since 1967.

Hawks concluding training

The Hancock North Central Hawks football team will end two weeks of spring training tomorrow with 39 players, an increase of 15 players over last year's squad.

Head coach Irvin Favre and assistant coach, Joe Williford are looking to their 14 returning lettermen to improve on last year's 1-10 record.

Among those returning are quarterback Ted Williams, full backs Daniel Havard and Sonny Schwartz, halfbacks Doss Duckworth and Paul Harris, and split ends Kenny Walsh and Dexter Shaw.

The returning linemen include tackles Bobby Shubert and Kendall Ladner, guards Albert Necaise, Eddie Ladner, and Eddie Harriel, and center Al Walsh.

"We feel good about the size of our squad," said Favre, appraising the turnout. "Of course, we'd like to have more folks out, but the program is growing and that's important."

Among the newcomers who will be counted on to bolster the squad are tackles David Haas, Kerwin Necaise, Lonnie Necaise, and Tim Durham; guards Mike McCreary and Martin Curet; centers David Schwartz and Levon Nelson; ends Daron Ladner, Ralph Garcia, and Norman Breaux; halfbacks Willie Harrison and Wesley Moran; quarterbacks Mitchell Deese and Michael Deese; and split ends Benny Waldrop and Kip Duplantis.

The graduation losses are Don Haas, who received all-conference honors this past season, and Ricky Mitchell and Revette Shaw, both of whom received honorable mention. Other graduating players are Tommy Larsen, Rene Tanguis, Carl Olsen, Mike McAtee, Eric Moran, and Glen Davis.

"Replacing guys like these isn't easy," Favre said. "But we're determined to have a better season next year."

Tourney scheduled for independents

Raiders beat St. Martin in opener, 3-2

The girl players carried the Coast Episcopal Raiders to a 3-2 win over St. Martin last Thursday in the season-opening tennis match for both teams at Heller Park.

Anne Johnson of Coast Episcopal, last year's Class B state runnerup, defeated Barbara Ryan 6-1, 6-2. The girls' team of Katherine Johnson and Holly Vegas defeated the St. Martin girls by the same score.

In mixed doubles, Regina Castelin and Doug Anderson of the Raiders edged Karen Karcher and Wes McDermott 6-4, 8-7 to provide the winning margin for the Raiders.

In singles play, Jim Cantrell of St. Martin defeated Jamie Hans 6-0, 6-1. In doubles, Brady Tucker and Darrell Moore of St. Martin outplayed Paul Clinkscales and Theron Furr 6-3, 6-3.

Coach Lambert Boyd of Coast Episcopal said he was pleased with his team's effort and added that the raiders chances to better last year's 8-3 record will depend largely upon the returning varsity players.

Besides Anne Johnson, the Raiders will look to Katherine Johnson and Perry Clinkscales who won the Class B mixed doubles title. Other returning varsity players include Jamie Hans, Paul Clinkscales, and Holly Vegas.

The Raiders game against St. John, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed because of rain. The rest of the Coast Episcopal tennis schedule is as follows: March 7-Vandave (home); March 11-Pass Christian (home); March 13-Notre Dame (TBA); March 17-St. Stanislaus OLA (home and away); March 24-D'Arville, girls, (home); April 1-Gulfport (away); April 4-Gulfport East (away); April 5-Coast Invitational Tourney (Heller Park); April 7-Sacred Heart (home); April 10-Long Beach (Gulf Park); April 14-Bay High (home and away); April 17-Pascagoula (away); April 21-St. John (away).

Joseph signs with Texas Southern

Paul Joseph, Pass High's senior tight end and defensive end, has signed a full four-year grant-in-aid football scholarship to Texas Southern University.

The signing, according to head football coach Bill Stevens, marks the first time in recent years that a Pass High athlete has signed a football scholarship to a major university.

"I feel like Paul is an outstanding athlete," said Coach Stevens after the signing. "He has a bright future in football. My only regret is that a state school didn't get him. But Texas Southern is an outstanding university. I'm sure he will contribute to the school's program."

Joseph, who is 6-1½ and weighs 185 pounds, was voted the Pascagoula River Conference's most outstanding lineman for 1974. He is a three-year letterman at Pass High in football and a two-year letterman in track, a point that Coach Stevens emphasizes.

"He's got the speed to be a wide receiver. He runs the forty yard dash in 4.6 seconds."

Joseph's speed showed itself in his reception totals. He led the conference with nine touchdowns and averaged over 27 yards a catch.

Among the other honors Joseph has received is the distinction of being twice named to the all-conference team. Joseph was also chosen for the Gulf Coast Burger King all-star football team, and recently was named to the Coach and Athlete magazine Prep All-American team.

Present at the signing were his mother, Mrs. Mayme Joseph of 386 Henderson Avenue, Pass High principal, H. T. Overby, assistant coach David Deaux, and Coach Stevens.

Stevens said that Joseph was scouted by Marshall Haddix.

KANTCHA

KETCHUM

By L. S. (Dec) Elliott

When you want to go fishing, go. It doesn't make any difference what time of the year it is in this neck of the woods as long as there is good water. In the winter time, underwater baits are the best, while in the spring and summer months, surface baits are best.

I've found that black gnats with a piece of pork rind pays off for bass and perch. Of course, if you are a caster, H and H baits, weedless sals, repalas or rebels (that go deep) are excellent baits to use.

In summer we've found that any kind of popping bug is most effective for both perch and bass. Baits with the most action are the ones to use, regardless of the color.

We have noted that when yellow butterflies are flying, yellow baits are successful. When black butterflies are flying, go to darker baits. Sounds logical, doesn't it?

Changing baits often pays off. From experience I have found if you are using a good bait stay with it, eventually the fish will hit it. Changing baits takes time.

Hunting quail up to Feb. 25th practically wound up the main hunting for 1975 except for turkey which is in season in March and April. Rabbits may be hunted with guns during open seasons on any game hunted with guns. But most of the sportsmen are now going fishing.

Harry Roman, Louis Decell, and Hoke Ogden have three good quail dogs which have to be fed and cared for all summer. That's work and worry, but we think it is worth it.

A supper meeting was held on Thursday night at the American Legion Home of the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club. Election of new officers was held and future events were taken up. A committee was chosen to consider having a children's fishing rodeo this summer. More on this later.

A very enthusiastic group of sportsmen were in attendance. Members did a good job of cooking the meal and cleaning. They are to be congratulated on a good job well-done.

Jerry "Buster" Mullin does both fishing and hunting. He lives out on Green Meadow Road near Jourdan River and says there is all kind of fishing out there. Jerry is an all-round sportsman.

Met Billy Rhodes, another all-round sportsman, who fly fishes, does salt water fishing and hunts mostly quail. He said he is willing to learn more about frogging, softerabbing, flounder, etc.

Warren Bernadas has his body and fender work business in New Orleans and a home in Bay St. Louis. He and his wife spend much time here, fishing, crabbing, etc.

A new business was opened on Highway 90 Friday by J.C. Koenenn and Russell Elliott. It's the Colonial Realty, Inc. Both are young active men and enjoy sports on their off time. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

Thanks to Hank Irwin, I have been named a committeeman for his Sea Explorer Ship 770 in New Orleans. Have had 40 years experience with the Boy Scouts and this is another job to fulfill.

The hunting or taking of hogs on the Pearl River Wildlife Management Area during wild turkey season - March 15-April 20 - is strictly prohibited, J. Burton Angelle, Director of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, announced Tuesday.

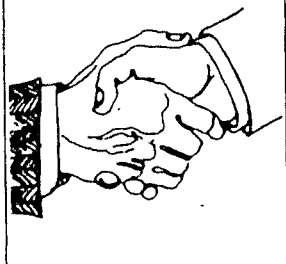

"Turkey hunting is tough enough without having a lot of hog hunters in the woods," Angelle said. "There would be too much moving around, and no way a turkey hunter could call in a gobble."

Oak tree seedlings are now available for planting by individuals and organizations to provide increased food for wildlife in the years ahead, according to J. Burton Angelle.

Supplies are on hand for immediate planting and may be obtained by writing to the commission's main office, 400 Royal Street, New Orleans, La. 70130; Baton Rouge office, P.O. Box 44095, Capitol Station, 70804; or any district office. Correspondence should be addressed to "Oaks for Wildlife."

The oak seedling planting program is a long range one, he said, but will have lasting benefits as soon as the trees begin to produce mast. Acorns (Continued on Page 10)

Ole Miss skipper optimistic

Optimism is a way of life with most baseball managers and coaches, and that's the current story with Ole Miss field boss Jake Gibbs.

"Sure I feel we can win in the Southeastern Conference this year," Gibbs observed Saturday.

"The first basic is pitching, and I like the staff we have for 1975. We appear to have a sound defensive lineup, and I feel that once our hitters get their timing down, we'll be able to score some runs."

And the parade for the Rebels gets underway in a hurry. Gibbs and his team move into the 1975 campaign Friday with a single game in University Park against Louisiana Tech.

Gibbs said there is "A lot of competition" among the 14 holdover lettermen and 17 rookies making up the current varsity squad. For that reason, he doesn't have a set lineup to start the first of a 49 games schedule.

"We'll look at a lot of players during the early games," he said Saturday. And with seven games slated on the campus from March 7-17, he'll have ample opportunity to experiment.

The Rebs host Illinois State Saturday, Western Illinois Sunday, Arkansas State in a doubleheader Tuesday, Union U. of Jackson, Tenn., March 15 and Delta State March 17. Starting times for all single games save the 12 noon Sunday meeting with Illinois State is 2 p.m. The twin bill with Arkansas State will get underway at 1:30.

Gibbs' fourth Ole Miss team has 17 games booked with 11 teams before the Rebels start SEC Western Division play with LSU in Baton Rouge March 28-29.

Both of last spring's leading hitters, junior infielder, T. Y. Ginter of Clinton and center fielder Pat Ball of Gadsden, Ala., a sophomore are returning. Gibbs currently has Ginter at shortstop where he played part-time a year ago. He hit .353, the third highest average in the SEC and was the only Reb with All-Conference credentials. Ball was fifth in SEC hitting with a .337 average.

Starters returning from 1974 include catcher Danny Starr (.235) of Memphis, Ginter, Mark Barnhouse (.255) of Memphis at second base, Gary Oakley (.171) of Senatobia at short and second, and Bubba Hubbard (.274) of Jackson at third. Ball, and Jim Powell (.154) of Atlanta and Ricky McClure (.217) of Jackson, who divided time in right field are also returning. Greg Hartsough of Owensboro, Ky., alternate starter at first base, is another letterman returning.

Letterman pitchers are righthanders Mike Park (.34) of Jackson; Trevor Nau (.20) of Ormsby, Minn.; Dave Ray of Jackson and Glenn Terry of Ripley, who lettered in 1972-73, and southpaws Dave Palmer (.31) of No. Little Rock, Ark.; and Mike Johnson (.31) of Robinson, Ill.

New members of the staff are Ricky Ziblich of New Orleans, Tommy Lyons of Biloxi; Pete Ladd of Atlanta; Mike Snapp of Mattoon, Ill.; Mickey Biscoe of Safety Harbour, Fla., and Williams Griffin of Gloucester.

Starr's catching replacements are Jimmy Edwards of Memphis, Bill Haywood of Lewisburg, Tenn., and Charles Hedgepeth of Monticello.

Jim Reed of Silver City at first base, Mark May of Memphis at shortstop and Hugh Knight of Crystal Springs at third are rookie infielders with Mike Templeton of Jackson, Tenn., Milt Stinnett of Laurel and Woody Brooks of Jackson bidding for berths in the outfield.

Kern Coleman of Chamber, Ga., freshman first baseman, is nursing a pulled hamstring muscle. He was the middle linebacker - guard starter in football last season.

Pass releases tennis schedule

The Pass Christian High school has released its 1975 varsity tennis schedule. The schedule features 14 matches with a home-and-home setup with Long Beach.

The 1975 schedule is as follows: March 7 Bay High (away); March 11, Coast Episcopal (away); March 13, Gulfport (away); March 18, Long Beach (away); March 20, St. Martin (home); April 1, D'Iberville (home); April 5, Coast Invitational Tournament (St. Martin's); April 9, Sacred Heart-Notre Dame (away); April 10, Biloxi (away); April 15, Long Beach (home); April 17, St. John (away); April 22, St. Stanislaus-OLA (away); April 23, Pascagoula (away).

Talked to another good fisherman the other day, Louis J. Jaquillard, Jr. who uses mostly earth worms this time of year to catch bass and perch. Louis also does some salt water fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Seely were over for the weekend from New Orleans. They visited his brother Al and probably did a little fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Englehorn are waiting for a little warmer weather to take the boat out and do some fishing at which both are good.

Ernest "Pie" Ladner is visiting Mrs. Fred Garner and getting in some fishing. Of course Mrs. Ladner is with him. Ernest is a brother of Lloyd Ladner. Enough said when it comes to fishing.

Another member of the "Gunna Club" is C.C. McDonald, Jr. Everytime I meet him, he says that we are gunna go fishing, but don't. C.C. loves fly fishing and is pretty good at it.

A coming event is the St. Patrick's Day Parade on March 15th at Waveland. Better try to make it if you want to have a good time. Tony Scavo is an Italian but is a member of the Irish organization and a good one at that. Nationality is no problem. He is one of the many.

Sylvester Benigno said he is 66 years old and is waiting to get his free fishing license to start fishing. We have the boat, tackle and all, Sylvester.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK—Leon Prima, a resident of Diamondhead, has as his main hobbies fishing and playing golf. Leon says this section of the Gulf Coast is the best area for recreation.

FLYING SCOT MID-WINTERS - The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club had quite a representation at the Flying Scot Mid-Winter National Regatta at St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club in Panama City, Fla. The five-day sailing event took place in the beautiful Florida sunshine and a variety of wind conditions, from near calm to a blustery northwest breeze on the final day of racing, causing several of the participants to drop out of the series.

Highlighting the week of sailing was the Race of Champions, a four-race series preceding the Mid-Winters in which Marc Eagan of BWYC was invited to participate as one of the five Scot Champions who competed against the five visiting champions of other classes. Ten new suits of sails were furnished for this series to equalize the boats as much as possible. The results of the Race of Champions were as follows: first, Rick Grajerina, International 470 champion; second, Art. Ellis, Comet Champion from San Diego, Calif.; third, Doug Sanson, FS; fourth Gene Walet, Mallory Cup winner; fifth, Paul Schreck, North American and Mid-Winter FS champion; sixth, Marc Eagan, FS; seventh, Randy Miller, Hobi champion; eighth, Bud Barrett, FS

District Champion; ninth, Fred Meno, FS Mid-Winter champion; and tenth, Peter Branning.

The competitors were then divided into four groups which sailed against each other in three qualifying races, in order to separate the sixty-nine skippers into a Championship and a Challenger Division. Marc Eagan, with crew Ed Turnipseed and Dennis Stieffel, was the winner of the first of the qualifying races.

The final three races were sailed Saturday and Sunday. Art Ellis won the thirty-seven boat Championship Division to become the 1975 Mid-Winter Champion. Paul Schreck finished second, George Haynie third, Click Schreck fourth, and John Murray fifth.
